

MP FIGHTS DECISION BY POLICE

Report by Lee Watton

James Morris MP — will fight

WEST Midlands Police needs to get its priorities right — that was the view of an MP after plans were revealed to close five police stations across Dudley borough.

Bases in Dudley, Stourbridge, Halesowen, Netherton and Kingswinford are all earmarked for closure under proposed budget cuts. Two MPs have hit out against the bombshell, saying they will fight to save their stations.

Halesowen and Rowley Regis MP James Morris has launched a petition to fight the closure of Halesowen Police Station. "West Midlands Police needs to get its priorities right," said the Conservative MP. "The proposals do not make sense and I will be fighting them tooth and nail."

His petition is online and a paper version will be available at his constituency office. Dudley North MP Ian Austin has already campaigned against the closure of the front desk at Dudley's main police station.

The Labour MP said: "We all know savings have to be made but these closures are a direct result of the Government's decision to hand West Midlands Police disproportionate cuts — that are twice as deep as places like Surrey."

"We fought hard when they were closing the front desk to the public at Dudley earlier this year, presenting a petition signed by 2,200 local people to Parliament, and taking our case to the policing minister, the chief constable and the Police and Crime Commissioner."

Push

"It's now more important than ever for people to add their name to our petition so we can push the Government, Dudley Council and West Midlands Police to find a way of keeping police based in the town."

Chairman of West Midlands Police Federation Tom Cuddeford said: "While these offices many not be open to the public, officers work from them and host meetings there. The closures will take officers further away from the communities they serve."

Stourbridge MP Margot James said protecting the jobs of police officers was the priority. She explained: "I am not going to oppose the move but that doesn't mean to say I'm not concerned. I think it's important the police have a presence in Stourbridge."

"I would be interested to see alternative plans. I don't think it's going to close for a couple of years and if a suitable premises can be established in Stourbridge that would be ideal."

Van driver gets £800 rubbish bill

A VAN driver who illegally dumped waste in Halesowen has been ordered to pay more than £800 by magistrates.

Aaron Cox, of St John's Road, Halesowen, duped a resident into paying £50 to have her waste removed by him.

But Dudley Magistrates Court was told that he had later dumped the black bags including garden waste and other rubbish on land in Hawne Park.

The rubbish was traced back to the resident who said she had paid Cox, aged 34, to properly dispose of it.

The court was told that he was also found to be carrying the rubbish in his van without a proper licence.

Cox admitted dumping the waste at court last week and also not having the correct licence to carry it.

Magistrates fined him £200 and ordered him to pay costs of £410, plus a £180 criminal court charge and a £20 victim surcharge — a total bill of £810.

Cabinet member for environmental services on Dudley Council, Councillor Hilary Bills said it was the taxpayer that ended up footing the bill for illegally dumped rubbish.

Dwindling congregation shuts church

A CHURCH is being forced to close after almost 100 years due to a dwindling congregation.

The number of people attending the Bethel Mission Free Church in Hasbury, Halesowen, has shrunk to so few that remaining members of the congregation have decided to wind the church up.

A Harvest of Memories celebration on October 18 will be the final chapter in the church's history.

Trustee Irene Layton, aged 83, has been going to the church for more than 70 years. She joined the church when she was just 10 when it had a thriving congregation.

Mrs Layton, of Islington, Halesowen, said: "Unfortunately, we're going to have to close due to dwindling numbers. The miracle we needed didn't happen."

The church holds special memories for Mrs Layton, as it is where she married her husband, where his funeral was held and also where her sister's funeral was held.

She said: "We used to have Sunday school and evening services which were very well attended. It's amazing how much things can change from one generation to the next."

Tennis ace Jordanne given MBE honour

Grand Slam success

TENNIS star Jordanne Whaley, one of Britain's most successful players, has described her joy at receiving an MBE from the Princess Royal.

Whaley last year completed the feat that has eluded all previous disabled and able bodied tennis players — a calendar Grand Slam of all four majors.

The 23-year-old from Halesowen, who has brittle bone disease, won the Australian Open, French Open, Wimbledon and US Open doubles crowns with sporting partner Yui Kamiji from Japan. The pair dominate women's doubles and during 2015 defended their Wimbledon and Australian titles.

Whaley last month won the wheelchair singles championship at the US Open, the first British woman to do so.

After the Buckingham Palace ceremony on Tuesday, the tennis star played down her achievement. "I didn't actually set out to do the calendar Grand Slam," she said.

"It wasn't until I'd won the Australian Open and Roland Garros that I said to Yui 'we're halfway there, we might as well go for all four' and everything just clicked."

Of her MBE, she added: "When I got the letter through the post I read it about five or six times, I thought it was a mistake."

She won wheelchair doubles bronze at the London 2012 Paralympics and aims for singles and doubles golds at the Rio Games.

DEVELOPMENT

Abbey barns to be made into homes

CONTROVERSIAL plans to convert six disused barns on a historic site into homes and a visitor centre have been approved.

Six homes will be created within the grounds of the historic scheduled monument Halesowen Abbey as part of the development, after proposals received delegated approval from Dudley Council.

Renewed plans were submitted by site owner Mrs Sue Tudor earlier this year after previous permissions expired.

Halesowen Abbey Trust still had concerns about the project although the group welcomed plans to improve a footpath.

CHARITIES

Marathon mayor plans heroic effort

THE Mayor of Dudley will be pounding the streets in a charity half-marathon dressed as Black Country Mon.

Councillor Steve Walto will don the tights and cape as the popular local hero for the Great Birmingham Run on October 18. He will be joined by a team of runners, also dressed as Black Country Mon, for the 13-mile course in aid of his five charities.

SPEEDWAY

Heathens' future thrown into doubt

THE Cradley Heathens speedway club supporters' trust has admitted the club is 'heading into the unknown' after its owners announced they were walking away.

The Heathens have been plunged into crisis, with the outgoing bosses admitting they don't know whether the team's next fixture against King's Lynn will be its last.

Chairman Nigel Pearson and club partners Chris Van Straaten and Gary Patchett revealed they were going to step down at the weekend due to personal circumstances and other work commitments.

Jail for man who snatched girl, nine

Edward Burns

A DANGEROUS predator who snatched a nine-year-old girl off a Black Country street as she walked home from Sunday prayers has been jailed for four-and-a-half years.

Edward Burns struck at lunchtime in Belmont Road, Bearwood, shortly after the child got off a bus.

The 38-year-old with no history of offences against children was carrying the screaming and struggling girl down an alleyway leading to his flat when a woman saw what was happening and shouted at him. He dropped the victim and fled but the victim's detailed description of the culprit led to him being traced and arrested within days of the March 29 kidnap.

Recorder Nicholas Cartwright told Burns as the sentence was passed at Wolverhampton Crown Court: "It is pure good fortune that this woman intervened. I conclude there was a sexual motive behind this kidnapping and I am driven to the conclusion that this was not going to be trivial sexual activity. This little girl must have been terrified." The girl was knocked to the ground between two parked cars as Burns fell on top of her.

She was pinned face down and unable to cry out for help before he picked her up, carried her across the road and down the alley where they were spotted.

Burns from Bearwood Road, Bearwood, admitted kidnap. He will have to serve at least two thirds of his prison sentence and will then be monitored under licence for a further six and a half years, five years more than would normally be the case because he was of the risk he represents.

Detective Constable Luke Stephens said: "The child was very brave and gave us a detailed description of the man who attacked her. I would also like to thank the public spirited actions of the woman who intervened and helped the child."

Banned driver jailed over soldier tragedy

A BANNED driver who sped through a red light at nearly 70mph and ploughed straight into a soldier's car, killing him instantly, has been jailed for 10 years.

Kasim Mohammed smashed into a car driven by Adam Hancox on the A4123 Wolverhampton Road between Bleakhouse Road and Cleat Road in Oldbury.

Adam Hancox

Kasim Mohammed

The 27-year-old, who had been out drinking the night before the crash, then ran off - leaving a seriously injured passenger in his Volkswagen Passat.

However, four witnesses saw Mohammed - who was disqualified from driving at the time - trying to run away and collared him, wrestling him to the ground.

Wolverhampton Crown Court heard how the 'catastrophic' collision was caused by Mohammed's 'obvious and blatant disregard for the rules of the road'.

One witness described seeing Mohammed's Passat 'T-bone' Mr Hancox's Ford, according to Mr Kevin Grego, prosecuting.

Mr Hancox, 26, of Pitcairn Road, Smethwick, was on sick leave when the crash happened on November 23 last year.

After being arrested close to the scene, Mohammed, of Bearwood Road, Smethwick, twice refused to provide a specimen of breath.

Mohammed's passenger described him speeding up on the approach, 'as if he could beat' the lights.CCTV at the side of the road has been used to work out that Mohammed was travelling at a minimum of 69mph when he was just 90m from the junction - but he did not slow down.

The speed limit on the road is 40mph.

Mohammed pleaded guilty to causing death by dangerous driving, driving whilst disqualified, failing to stop at the scene of an accident, failing to provide a specimen and driving without insurance. He was also disqualified him from driving.

Two hurt after explosion at flat

The damaged property in Rowley Regis, after the explosion.

TWO men have been injured and 20 people evacuated after an explosion in a Rowley Regis flat caused a fire.

The pair, who were inside, managed to leave the flat and were detained by police at the scene.

They were both taken to hospital with minor injuries and will be questioned about what happened when they are fit to do so.

No one else is believed to have been injured in the explosion or fire, but structural damage was caused to the house, leading to the evacuation of 20 residents from homes in the immediate vicinity as a precaution.

The 20 people spent Tuesday night in temporary accommodation following the explosion which took place just before 10.10pm.

West Midlands Police have launched an investigation following the explosion in Oldbury Road.

Fire crews also attended the blaze and Oldbury Road was closed at the junction with Penn-cricket Lane.

Agency bill for borough schools is nearly £5m

ALMOST £5 million was spent on agency staff at schools across Dudley in a year, figures reveal.

Schools forked out thousands of pounds on providing cover during 2014/15. Casual workers were brought into to cover sickness absences and maternity leave.

The figures, revealed under the Freedom of Information Act, did not include academies, which are run independently, but related to primary and secondary schools, special schools and nurseries.

Teaching cover cost £3.8m, while over a million spent on support staff. Expenditure can also cover full-time teachers covering other lessons or weekends.

Thorns Community College in Brierley Hill spent most on agency staff during the period, paying out £336,000. This was followed by the Priory Primary School which spent £193,000.

Other big spenders were the Pens Meadow Special School in Stourbridge, which spent £172,000, the Brier Special School in Kingswinford, which paid out £154,000, Dudley's Hillcrest Secondary School, which spent £132,000, and Colley Lane Primary School in Halesowen, £118,000. Old Park Special School in Brierley Hill spent £232,000 on other support staff, while the Coseley School paid £135,000.

Councillor Ian Cooper, boss of children's services, said: "School governors and head teachers manage their own budgets and make financial decisions in the best interests of pupils and the whole of the school."

Insurers raise £600 for charity

STAFF at specialist motoring insurance broker Footman James in Dudley have raised nearly £600 for Macmillan Cancer Support.

The company, which has moved from Rowley Regis to Castlegate House beat last year's amount from a coffee morning for the charity by almost £100.

The event included a stall with sweet and savoury treats baked by staff and a raffle with more than 20 prizes ranging from afternoon tea to a month's free gym membership.

Director David Bond said: "We were delighted to sign up for Macmillan's coffee morning and raise money for such a worthwhile event."

Footman James, which started more than 30 years ago, moved to its new base last year. It employs 150 in the town.

Volunteers blitz rubbish on streets

TWENTY six bags of rubbish have been picked up across six roads in Tipton as part of Sandwell's Safer 6 campaign.

Volunteers from Tipton Litter Watch along with the Rowley Regis neighbourhood team took to the streets to collect litter from Mount Road to Park Road.

Nearly one thousand temp jobs at council

NEARLY 1,000 staff are being employed on temporary contracts by Dudley Council.

The 978 employees hired by Dudley Council are paid on average £11.52 per hour, well above the national minimum wage of £6.50.

The majority are employed by the authority to work in schools across the borough. A total of 462 temporary staff work as either teachers or teaching assistants.

Other roles include administration assistants, library assistants, park rangers and social workers.

The authority was criticised in June when it emerged it was forking out £800 a day on employing an interim chief officer for children's services. The council has twice tried unsuccessfully to fill the post.

Necessary

Councillor Judy Foster, cabinet member for corporate and customer services, said: "The work of the council is very varied and sometimes it is necessary to use temporary staff, such as seasonal staff who are required to work at specific times of the year, or those filling a statutory role which cannot be left vacant."

She added: "We employ temporary staff on occasions until a permanent member of staff can be found to fill the role."

"In all instances we ensure that the right person is taken on for the role to ensure we continue to provide first class services for borough residents."

Dangerous drug stolen from van

POLICE are warning about a potentially lethal drug that was stolen from a pharmacy van which was driven across the Black Country before being dumped in Wolverhampton.

The van was taken from Gough Road, Dudley, just before 10am on Thursday, then found a short time later in Bradley.

Two prescriptions were found to be missing, one of which was for the anti-cancer drug methotrexate.

Police say this drug is extremely dangerous to touch and could cause serious injury or even death if ingested by children or animals.

The 16 yellow tablets are in a small brown click-lock bottle.

Anyone with information should contact Wolverhampton Police on 101.

Peaky Blinders in return to locations

FILMING was due to start on the new series of Brummie gangster drama Peaky Blinders this week. The third series is expected to be shot on location in the Midlands again, including the Black Country Living Museum.

Edwards pride of place in heart of Dudley

Mayor Steve Waltho, Conor Devlin and freestyle footballer Colin Nell

HE is one of Dudley's most loved footballing heroes and now Duncan Edwards' statue has been given new prominence in the heart of the town.

Members of his family were among scores of people who attended a re-dedication ceremony last week.

The Manchester United and England star's statue has been repositioned as part of a revamp of the town centre.

It would have been Edwards' 79th birthday on October 1 and he remains a legend to many in the Black Country.

Duncan's cousin Keith, 78, at the ceremony said: "It means a lot to all of us. We come down here twice a year, on the day Duncan was born and the day he died. The whole family are so proud."

The statue has been moved across the market place to the Castle Street side as part of a £6.7 million revamp.

Coachloads

Three coachloads of Manchester United fans travelled to Dudley for the special service.

Brian Mulholland, from the Manchester United Supporters Club, said the re-dedicated statue would become a pilgrimage site for thousands of Manchester United fans.

Mr Mulholland, 65, said: "It's a credit to the town, Dudley Council and especially to Duncan's family."

A new plinth on the statue was unveiled by Mayor of Dudley Councillor Steve Waltho and Duncan's third cousin, 12-year-old Connor Devlin.

Duncan Edwards died aged 21 from injuries sustained in the 1958 Munich air disaster.

Town's car parks could be replaced by housing

TOWN centre car parks in Cradley Heath will be axed under plans to cut costs at cash-strapped Sandwell Council.

Many shoppers park at Tesco Extra – where there is no charge – meaning three of the five council-run car parks are considered surplus to requirements.

But the move has drawn criticism from High Street traders who claim the move would cripple their business and push more shoppers to the supermarket giant.

The car parks at Corngreaves Road, Graingers Lane and Northgate/Prince Street are set to be sold off following a review by council bosses. New housing could be built on the land under the proposals.

Councillor Bill Gavan, chairman of the land and asset management committee, said: "In Cradley Heath most people park on Tesco."

"I think that it could save thousands. If they were bringing in money they would be kept but obviously there is not enough money coming in."

"The council wants to keep council tax down. Other things need to be looked at."

"We hear about building more social housing. More social housing is needed. The land could be used."

Customers

But Rajesh Sethi, manager of the Ransons discount store in High Street, said the move would badly affect trade.

"If we have not got most of the car parks here we will not have the footfall and we will definitely be losing customers," he explained.

"They have already put the parking charges in and people park instead in Tesco. People will shop wherever is easily available from their car."

"This council does not seem to bother about footfall and bringing customers in. If they do not support local business they should not be charging us business rates."

If approved the proposals would be a further blow to traders following weeks of roadworks.

A stretch of the High Street has been shut to drivers for almost two months to allow for a £100,000 gas works scheme.

The work between St Anne's Road and the West Bromwich Building Society is due to be completed on Saturday.

Mr Sethi said he had lost at least 25 percent of his trade as a result of the works and added that the town was now at its 'economic lowest'.

Netherton father Craig Griffiths, aged 26, who died after his car crashed on Birmingham New Road, pictured with his five-year-old daughter

Family's tributes after car tragedy

TRIBUTES have been paid to a car enthusiast who died when his vehicle smashed into a tree and lamppost beside the Birmingham New Road in Dudley.

Craig Griffiths got out of the car after the crash but then suffered a cardiac arrest at the scene. Paramedics treated him and he was taken to Russells Hall Hospital where he later died.

The family of Mr Griffiths has released a picture of him with his five-year-old daughter.

In a statement, the heartbroken family said: "He was a quiet and shy young man with a cheeky, infectious smile and he would do anything for anyone, always put others first."

The 26-year-old from Netherton was described as a brilliant father.

The crash happened near the empty King Arthur pub at around 10.20pm on September 29. No other vehicles are believed to have been involved. A passenger, aged 26, suffered minor injuries and was taken to hospital for treatment.

Floral tributes have been placed at the site by friends and family.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Sunday market opens for business

DUDLEY Market will open on Sundays for the first time ever in the lead up to Christmas.

Bosses hope the change, which comes into effect from October 25, will 'bring life back in to the town'.

A new company called Dudley Market Traders now run the market.

It is the first scheme of its kind in the Black Country, with Dudley Council retaining ownership of the market but handing over its running to the traders.

The market currently runs six days a week.

Children's centres may host health services

EXTRA services will be moved into children's centres across Dudley, as part of a shake-up in the borough.

The changes are coming about because the responsibility for commissioning public health services for children has transferred from NHS England to local authorities.

A report presented to the Dudley Council's People's Service committee sets out options to improve the integration of services. Among the proposals is locating midwifery services, health visitors and family support workers in the centres.

A weekly multi-agency safeguarding group is also proposed to discuss new ways to improve early intervention and ensure referrals into children's social care services are appropriate.

Moving the registration of new births to children centres will also be explored to increase the numbers of vulnerable families accessing other available services.

The report states the advantage of the council taking over responsibilities is that it has the potential to provide a more cost-effective service built around individual needs.

Benefit

Deborah Harkins, chief officer for health and well-being at Dudley Council, said: "The benefit of bringing these services together is to provide an integrated service with a single point of access for children and families.

"There is a slight variance in roles between different providers in supporting children and families, so this transfer will enable them to work more closely together around families' needs. Pilot sites are still to be decided.

"The new weekly safeguarding group will allow our frontline professionals an opportunity to share intelligence around safeguarding issues and fulfil their duty to contribute as part of a multi-agency approach.

"Birth registration at a locality level enables new parents to be known to the locality team, who can introduce them to local centres and services they can access."

She added: "This development is in the very early stages of consideration. We will consult local communities if it is felt there is merit in these proposals before taking any final decision."

Reality TV stars Jake Quickenden and Stephanie Pratt

FORMER X Factor singer turned I'm a Celebrity star Jake Quickenden and reality TV star Stephanie Pratt wowed the crowds at a special students' night at Merry Hill shopping centre.

The famous pair were guests of honour as Intu Merry Hill centre held its annual student night offering discounts at the shopping complex. They appeared on stage and took part in a game where they were joined by members of the crowd to try and remember the lyrics of songs.

Jake, who won an army of fans during last year's X Factor and I'm a Celebrity Get Me Out of Here, was mobbed with requests for pictures and autographs. He was mentored by Mel B in the star-making show before entering the celebrity jungle and finishing runner-up to supermodel Carl Fogarty.

He was happy with the reaction, saying: "They were all lovely, it was really nice. I have been to Birmingham quite a few times, it is the first time in Dudley but it won't be the last."

Glamorous Stephanie was due to be accompanied by fellow Made In Chelsea star Jamie Laing but he was unable to make it.

Prab joins the run in memory of brother

A ROAD-running Tipton man is gearing up for a marathon challenge in memory of his brother.

Prab Sahota, aged 36, is hitting the Great Birmingham Run on October 18 in aid of Acorns Children's Hospice.

The charity provided care for his brother, Pavan, who was born with muscular dystrophy and died in December 1997, aged just 16.

Mr Sahota is an administrator and quality manager at Birmingham University. He said: "My brother attended Acorns from a young age and enjoyed his stay there as it enabled him to be more independent."

"The staff were brilliant and helped provide stimulation and laughter."

"As Pavan got older, his condition deteriorated but at Acorns he could do what he wanted, like go on trips and get to know children his own age."

"He had a lot of fond memories and made lots of friends during his time there."

The Great Birmingham Run is not the first time Mr Sahota has been involved in fundraising. In 2010 he did a Great Wall of China trek and recently abseiled to raise money.

He added: "I've been involved in various fundraising events over the years for the charity. If I can help other families like Acorns helped mine, it'll make it all worth it."

£100m flats scheme for car park site

PLANS have been unveiled for a £100 million development of more than 300 rented flats on the site of a car park in Birmingham city centre.

Put together by developer Sterling Property Ventures and its funding partner, London-based Long Harbour, the scheme for at Great Charles Place was revealed last week.

The first phase of the project would include 320 studio, one, two and three bedroom apartments, 20,000 sq ft of ground floor shops and leisure space, and a mix of units, totalling 8,000 sq ft, to cater for small businesses. There will also be 100 car parking spaces for residents.

The apartments will have a dedicated reception with 24-hour security and a porter service, while a communal garden will provide outdoor space for residents, with shared roof terraces offering views across the city.

If it secures the backing of Birmingham council work will start in January, with the first apartments available to rent from early 2018.

James Howarth, managing director of Sterling Property Ventures, said: "Plans for Great Charles Place have been on the drawing board for two years so we are extremely excited to finally be in a position to share our vision for the scheme with the public. Getting a funder on board was the last piece of the puzzle."

Overnight closure of M5 for resurfacing

THE M5 near Halesowen will be closed overnight for eight hours until the end of this month, for work to take place on a stretch from the Grange Road roundabout.

The motorway will be shut between 10pm and 6am in both directions from junction 3 to junction 4a for resurfacing work to take place.

100 recruits sought to care for the elderly in their homes

A very hand-some work of art proposed

An artist's impression of the proposed Halesowen Hand sculpture to be positioned on the Grange Road island in Halesowen

A PUBLIC appeal has been launched to raise £35,000 towards creating a hammer sculpture on a traffic island into Halesowen.

Metal artist Luke Perry is creating the anvil and hammer sculpture after being commissioned by the town's chamber of trade.

People have urged officials to brighten up Grange Road Island at the junction with A456 Manor Way. It is hoped the sculpture will create an improved image for motorists on their way into the town.

Halesowen Chamber of Trade chairman Wayne Edwards said that the sculpture would be an asset to the community. It will cost around £28,000 and landscaping is estimated at a further £7,000.

Mr Edwards said: "When Luke came back to us with his ideas I think he will create a really iconic structure for Halesowen."

The statue is a steel frame anvil to allow visibility for drivers with a hand and hammer in sheet steel positioned on top. It will be made from steel and part galvanised, taking around six months to complete. Mr Perry will create the sculpture in his factory in Cradley Heath.

"The hammer and anvil represented the metal working trades that dominated and still continue to be present in Halesowen," he said.

A CARE firm based in Tipton is set to create at least 100 jobs in the Black Country over the next year as it meets increasing demand for looking after people in their own homes.

Tipton Homecare already employs 129, including 121 community care workers, and is to begin recruiting to fill vacancies in its team.

Human resources manager Lisa Johnson said that the 19-year-old business was looking to take on 20 employees every six weeks.

"We are looking for both men and women aged from 18 who meet our requirements," she said. "Unqualified staff will undergo an induction training programme and will shadow experienced carers until they have passed the training programme when they will go into service users' homes on their own."

Tipton Homecare, which is registered with the Care Quality Commission, has an eight-strong headquarters team at Venture Business Park, Bloomfield Road.

Dementia

The business, owned by Catherine and Stuart Higgins, started in Tipton in 1996 and has grown to serve surrounding towns including Wednesbury, Rowley Regis, West Bromwich, Walsall, Great Barr, Dudley, Bilston and Sedgley.

"We provide care in people's homes for older people, those with mental health issues, learning disabilities, dementia and Alzheimer's. We also provide care for people just discharged from hospital and work with social services on providing care packages," said Miss Johnson.

She said that unqualified staff worked towards getting an NVQ in care.

Drone rules re-examined after incidents

REGULATIONS on the use of drones could be tightened following a number of near-misses with aircraft close to major airports — including Birmingham airport.

Ministers are considering introducing a system to track the flight path of drones.

The UK Airprox Board investigated seven near-misses in the 12 months to July. The regulator is also believed to be examining four other cases, including one near Birmingham.

A spokesman for the Civil Aviation Authority, the UK's aviation regulator, said: "It is vital that people observe the rules when operating a drone. When putting a device into the air they are interacting with one of the busiest areas of airspace in the world — a complex system that brings together all manner of aircraft including passenger aeroplanes, military jets, helicopters, gliders, light aircraft and now drones."

IN MY VIEW

with Mark Andrews

Slogan was plumbing the depths for rugby

I KNOW nothing about rugby, and to be frank I find the oval-ball game about as interesting as a box set of Downton Abbey.

But the England team went into this World Cup under the slogan "let's get the job done."

That's not a battle cry, it's an advert for a plumbers' merchant. No wonder they were ballcocks.

MAYBE the story about the Government allowing police forces to use devious, covert methods to snare speeding drivers, and then changing its mind following tabloid intervention, should be treated with a degree of scepticism.

But what says so much about Britain today is the explanation given by the Government for dropping the code of practice which said cameras only be bright yellow and only located at accident blackspot. "A Department for Transport spokesman said the 2007 rules were out of date," said the report.

Oh yes, out of date. That time-honoured, catch-all phrase for everyone with no other justification for their actions. Aside from the fact that the guidelines were introduced only eight years ago, since when has transport legislation been about the whims of fashion?

There are lots of things about our judicial systems that are out of date. Judges wearing wigs, Lords wearing ermine. Titles like Lord Chancellor and Mr Justice Smith. By and large they are harmless, and if anything maybe give a bit of gravitas to the proceedings.

But rules saying that speed cameras should be sensibly located and not hidden from view? Surely that's just fair play and common sense.

If the guidelines do need updating, how about adding a requirement that every camera should be clearly marked with what the actual speed limit is? I know at this point the pedants will point out that in the absence of a sign to the contrary national speed limits apply, which means 30 in a built-up-area, 60 on a single carriageway, and 70 on a double. But why not make it easy? They do want people to stick to the limits, don't they?

Meanwhile, it was revealed at the weekend the closure of 28 police stations around West Midlands. We all know cash is short and cuts have to be made, but how can it be right leaving a town the size of Dudley without a police station, and then spending money on hidden speed traps? Maybe they think police stations are out of date as well.

THEN again, there are some things about life today I find difficult to get my head around.

Like how is it that the most popular programme on television today is about a bunch of people baking cakes?

Sam strokes a cheetah while working at Dudley Zoo in 1962

Thank you gifts - one of the paintings created for Dudley Zoo

Sam's father would tell him stories about leopards

Artist's inspiration fired by time at zoo

Zoo keeper sacked because of too much time spent drawing animals says thanks for career. HEATHER LARGE reports

GROWING up listening to stories about leopards prowling the jungle inspired Rama Samaraweera to become a keeper at Dudley Zoo.

But this love for big cats also got the self-taught artist the sack from the Castle Hill attraction - because he spent more time sketching the animals than on his zoo duties.

Now aged 89, he has created three original oil paintings for the zoo to say thank you for being his 'art school' and also to make amends for "not being the best ever zoo keeper".

Birmingham-born Mr Samaraweera, known as Sam, began working at the attraction in 1962, and before getting the elbow became fond of many of the animal residents, who he loved to study and draw.

Encouraged

His love of animals came from his father, a doctor and surgeon from Ceylon, now known as Sri Lanka, who told him stories about the wild animals and encouraged his art.

He said: "As a four-year-old I drew tigers and other animals and was always encouraged by my father.

"Dad trained in the UK and worked as a GP in Birmingham, where I was born. He told me stories of leopards and elephants in the jungle and told me I was an artist and not a doctor.

"Forty years later I became a self-employed artist, having learned to understand the big cats and other animals whilst working as a zoo keeper at Dudley Zoo.

"I was soon sacked for spending too much time drawing and studying the animals. This was my only art school."

Mr Samaraweera said he grew a particular soft spot for some of the animals during his time at the attraction. He added: "I fell in love with Grace the giraffe, who took a banana from my coat pocket each day with her long tongue.

Former zoo keeper Rama Samaraweera with his oil paintings of animals

"I used to walk the cheetahs round the zoo, which always caused excitement, and much amusement when one lay down and would not be budged. It often took two keepers just to move it!"

After leaving the zoo his art career took off, leading him to exhibit at the Royal Academy, The Society of Wood Engravers, The Graphic Society, The Society of Wildlife Artists and The Pastel Society. In the 1970s his 'Clouded Leopard' picture was the biggest-selling print in America.

He said: "After training as a teacher, my wife Sue and I went to teach in Jamaica and I lectured in art and English literature.

"Later my publisher and great friend, the late John Solomon, gave me my first London exhibition, which sold out. John then published several prints during the 1970s and my painting of a clouded leopard became the best-selling print in America.

"The house we now live in is called Solomon House, after John Solomon, and the royalties from the leopard print and many others paid for our home.

"John told me I must paint for love and never money - and I never forgot this sound advice. Like most artists, I am very driven and have to go to my studio every day."

Mr Samaraweera, who now lives in South Wales, wanted to thank the zoo for inspiring his career as an artist, which has spanned five decades.

His nephew Phil Brooks, who is head of photography at Dudley College, delivered the artworks to the zoo.

Professional

"The three pictures are to say thank you to Dudley Zoo for inspiring uncle Sam and also to try and make amends for him not being the best ever zoo keeper.

"He's been a professional wildlife painter for the last 50 years and to this day credits Dudley Zoo as the catalyst for his career. Uncle Sam was only at the zoo for a year but he did love the animals, especially the big cats.

"His doctor says it's the painting which keeps uncle Sam young because he gets so deeply lost in his work that it puts him into a meditative state."

Zoo director Derek Grove said: "We are so grateful to Sam for giving us these incredible pieces of art. "I'm glad he's enjoyed such a rewarding career in art after leaving zoo keeping behind and we'll definitely make sure the paintings take pride of place at Dudley Zoo."

Drones — execution without trial

APPARENTLY launching killer drone planes flown by remote control by the RAF in Great Britain to kill people in foreign lands is considered legal by our Government, even though we are not actually at war with the country being attacked by our remote-controlled terminators.

Predator drones, like all machines, lack the human qualities of judgment, mercy, and compassion and their operators are in no danger, hidden away in a warm and comfy RAF bunker.

What has happened to the Geneva Convention? Britain once led the world in democracy, Magna Carta, joining NATO, the UN, and European Human Rights Convention. Now we see a British Prime Minister ordering the death of people with no trial.

Anonymous killer drone operators never answer the consequences for their actions. Mr Cameron ordered the execution, but his henchmen or women are never named and shamed. Will we even have drone executions on British soil?

Cameron is right on migrants

TIM Farron has condemned the Government for their stance on the Syrian refugee crisis, but the Liberal Democrat leader and Labour party supporters must realise we just cannot take in endless amounts of migrants that we are unable to cope with.

Estimates suggest that with current birth rates, the UK's population will rise by a projected 20 million in the next 30 years.

This rise in our population is already putting immense strain on our public services, school places, hospitals, now the Government want a million houses built over the next few years, if they can find the space.

So I think David Cameron is right to restrict the number of Syrian refugees coming to Britain to 20,000 over a five-year period, while at the same time giving generous financial support to refugee camps in the Middle East, which in turn could deter people from making life threatening efforts to gain entry into Europe.

Private care sector is facing a crisis

CURRENTLY across the West Midlands some 26,300 people are looked after in residential care and a similar number receive care packages in their homes.

The majority of that care is from private providers, who, according to regional figures released by Skills for Care – the development body for adult social care in England – employ a staggering 125,000 carers.

It's an immense workforce and sadly, like no time ever before, is under threat.

Care businesses in this part of the country rely heavily on local authorities purchasing beds as a primary income generator.

Revised regulatory governance, government austerity measures, the Chancellor's living wage legislation and councils paying fees for the last nine years that have not tracked the real cost of care, now result in homes on the verge of closure.

Occupancy across the region is running at 97 per cent. When our homes fail, where will we put those who are displaced? We have been creative and made savings to the point where there are none left to make without compromising Commission regulation.

We are appealing for MPs, councillors, local authority officers and Clinical Commissioning Groups to join with us to find a way ahead.

Rules will go up in smoke

HOW can the new law on smoking be policed? The law now says that, it is illegal to smoke in a car with a person under the age of 18 in the vehicle. Not only has the perpetrator got to be seen by a police officer, apart from being in a child's seat, how will a PC know if the passenger is under the age?

What if the driver is under 18 and smoking?

Every day drivers can be seen using mobile phones, speeding, driving through traffic lights on red, parking on zigzag lines at pedestrian crossings. How many are caught by the law?

The chances of them being caught in the future are probably even less than you thought. There are not enough police to turn out for break-ins, and it will get worse, just ask any police officer.

Appointment admin snag

YOUR article regarding missed NHS appointments made no reference to the amount of appointments missed through lack of appropriate administration.

I was referred by my GP and the letter notifying me of the appointment was dated and actually post marked a further seven days after that! I was lucky that the actual appointment was a further month down the line. The often forgotten administrators are an important link and should not be the first to go in any cost-cutting exercises.

Producing records at a rate of knots

STAFFORDSHIRE may well be the greatest county in the world for producing Land Speed Record breaking cars.

The chief engineer at the Sunbeam Motor Car Co in Wolverhampton, Louis Coatalen, was a great advocate of racing, and it was his post-First World War racing car usually called the Sunbeam 350 hp which first broke the World Land Speed Record (LSR).

It was powered by a version of a V12 Sunbeam Manitou aero engine, and after the famous pilot Harry Hawker had crashed it at Brooklands, Malcolm Campbell took it to the Salton Speed Trials and set a world record time of 138.08 mph, which was not ratified because only stop watches were used for timing.

Boulton & Paul of Norwich then tested it in their wind tunnel and improved its aerodynamics with a new cowl and streamlined tail. Campbell took it to Pendine Sands in September 1924, and set an official LSR of 146.16 mph. The following year he went back, and increased his record to 150.87 mph, the first car in the world to exceed 150mph.

Recently Campbell's grandson drove the newly restored 350 hp Sunbeam on Pendine, though at a more sedate pace.

In March 1926 Henry Seagrave, one of the other great names in speed record attempts, took the brand new Sunbeam Tiger racing car to Southport sands and raised the record to 152.33 mph.

This car, which had the smallest engine ever to hold the LSR, still exists in Utah, where it was driven at 159 mph in 1990.

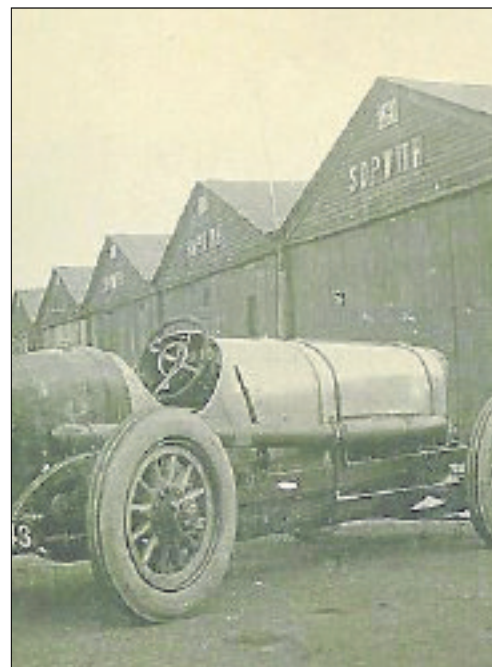

Next, Coatalen produced a purpose-built LSR car for Henry Seagrave to attempt to break the 200 mph barrier for the first time. Fitted with two 450 hp Sunbeam Matablele aero-engines, the 1000hp Sunbeam, aka Slug, achieved 203.79 mph on Daytona Beach in March 1927.

The baton was now passed to Coseley, where Bean Cars built the Thunderbolt for George Eyston, powered by two 36.7 litre Rolls-Royce V12 engines.

With this car Eyston took the record at Bonneville Salt Flats, in November 1937 with a speed of 311.49 mph. The LSR changed hands several times over the next few months, with John Cobb in competition with Eyston, who raised it to 345.49 mph in August 1938, and finally 357.50 mph in September.

Staffordshire returned to the world of speed records in 2006, when Uttoxeter's JCB sent their specially commissioned JCB DieselMax, powered by two turbo-charged JCB diesel engines to Bonneville, and broke the LSR for diesel powered-cars at 328.77 mph.

Children's services facing further Government scrutiny

GOVERNMENT officials will scrutinise Sandwell Council children's services department to check it is up to scratch – and could step in if its performance is considered under par.

A team from the Department for Education (DfE) will probe whether the authority is looking after the service, which was ranked inadequate by Ofsted in June.

If the council is deemed incapable of improving the services, an independent commissioner could be parachuted in to take charge or a team of experts from another council appointed.

The Ofsted inspection in June was the second time in succession the children's services at the council had been labelled inadequate.

But Kingston University Professor Ray Jones – who was appointed by the Government to oversee improvements – disagreed with the judgement.

House will be going back to the 1940s

STAFF at a historic house in Sandwell are turning the clock back to the 1940s with a weekend of food, music and costumes from the war years.

The free family days out are Haden Hill House Museum in Halesowen Road, Cradley Heath, on Saturday and Sunday from 11am to 3pm.

Visitors can find out what life was like when items from the Haden Hill House collection go on display. There will also wartime music, a food tasting event, a chance to learn about rationing and children's craft activities.

On Saturday, wartime re-enactors in period dress will help to enhance the 40s atmosphere.

"We are inviting young and old to travel back 70 years and join us for a weekend of World War Two nostalgia and learn about what life was like during the 1940s," said Alison Hyatt, visitor services officer.

Admission is free but there may be a small charge for some activities. Call (01384) 569 444.

Capacity

Council leader Councillor Darren Cooper said he welcomed the visit from independent officials from the DfE and was confident the council was improving.

A DfE spokesman said: "We have commissioned an assessment of the council's capacity to improve. This will also provide recommendations on how to secure and sustain the necessary improvements in children's services."

Since June, the council brought in a two-year improvement plan to address some of the issues highlighted by the watchdog.

Councillor Cooper said: "We had a difference of opinion with Ofsted and so someone independent is coming to have a look at what we're doing. I expect us to show we're doing well."

"We're not looking for any vindication about the Ofsted report, as we know there are still issues we need to address but we are on course to deal with them."

A star-studded panto? Oh yes it is!

Aladdin stars Julian Clary and Matt Slack pose with a dragon at Birmingham Hippodrome as tickets go on sale

FESTIVE cheer arrived early in the West Midlands as the stars of this year's Birmingham Hippodrome pantomime took centre stage for the launch of the annual extravaganza.

Popular panto stars Julian Clary and Matt Slack are returning to star in Aladdin with Wet Wet Wet frontman Marti Pellow as the villain.

Comedian and former Celebrity Big Brother winner Julian Clary teamed up with Slack, who will be performing in his third consecutive panto at the Hippodrome, to launch the show.

The pair got into their costumes to pose for photographs before discussing their hopes for this year's production, with Clary declaring he 'can't wait' to get going.

Clary, who will be playing the Spirit of the Ring, said: "I am very excited, I can't wait to get back into the swing of things. I have done a lot of pantomime over the years but never Aladdin, so it is a whole new character, a whole new costume, new set and new lines for me to learn."

"We will be using 3D effects to enhance the show, which can be quite full-on for the audience and strange for performers, but a lot of fun. We are moving pantomime forward."

Matt Slack, who will be playing the role of Wishee Washee, said he plays a hands-on part in making sure everything is just right for his character to get big laughs.

He said: "I tweak the scripts here and there, it is a team thing of course but I really enjoy doing that. I think as a team we will come up with something really special."

Jailed thief is banned from entering shops

A SERIAL thief has been banned from entering shops across Dudley borough for two years following thefts from stores in Halesowen and Stourbridge.

Tracey Rowley, of Church Road, Lye, was jailed for 23 weeks for stealing perfume, meat and razors.

On release she will be barred from entering any Wilkinsons, Boots or Asda shop anywhere in the borough for two years and has been issued with a Criminal Behaviour Order.

The 35-year-old admitted three thefts when she appeared before Dudley magistrates on September 15, and was given a seven-week jail term for each.

Fragrance

On July 25 she stole two bottles of fragrance from Boots in the Ryemarket Shopping Centre, Stourbridge, worth a total of £130.

Then, on September 7, she took washing liquid and razors worth £72 from a Wilkinsons store in Halesowen.

Five days later Rowley stole meat worth £60 from the Asda supermarket, also in Halesowen.

She was given a further two weeks behind bars for failing to attend supervision appointments that had been arranged for her in August, following her release from prison.

Get podging at rug workshops in libraries

CRAFTY people are invited to try a traditional Black Country craft at Halesowen Library.

A free one hour workshop in rag rug podging will be held at the library in the Cornbow Shopping Centre.

The event takes place on Thursday, October 15, from 11am to noon. See a member of staff or call (01384) 812983 for more information.

A similar workshop is at Long Lane Library on October 21 at 3pm.

THE kingdom of Mercia rising up to challenge the expansionist West Midlands Combined Authority has a certain romance to it.

Of course it's really rather more bureaucratic than that.

The counties of Staffordshire and Shropshire don't see themselves as part of what is commonly known as the West Midlands, or do they want to be left behind to become a leafy meat in the sandwich of a Northern Powerhouse and a Midlands Engine.

The rural counties are facing the same dilemma that the Black Country and Birmingham had a year ago.

If they do not throw their lot in with someone, they risk losing out on investment and powers to the likes of Greater Manchester.

Pride

But they also have their own pride and their own identities. Similarly, they have their own separate issues.

Staffordshire is not Birmingham, even if many people in some parts of it happen to work in the second city.

So the suggestion by MPs Gavin Williamson, Jeremy Lefroy and Karen Bradley is for Staffordshire, Shropshire, Derbyshire and Nottinghamshire to join forces in a 'Mercian economic partnership'.

Mercia is a much nicer name than West Midlands Combined Authority, or WMCA, which seems to be racing ahead, if the leaked document about its bid for devolved powers is anything to go by. No-one connected with the

Would George Osborne go for the nationalisation of the M6 Toll?

WMCA is allowed to talk about what is meant to be a work in progress.

For a start, until this document came to light there was no firm plan to accept an elected mayor.

Now we find the first citizen of the West Midlands is not only very much on the cards but also set to have the power to levy council tax. And there's an ambitious bid for millions of pounds of taxpayers' money to make the M6 Toll free to use.

It might well put paid to any suggestions of reviving the Western Orbital Route. But would the Chancellor go for it? Nationalising a private company doesn't sound particularly Tory. Yet if it's in the powers of a democratically elected regional mayor, George Osborne can wash his hands of the whole thing. Another thing we have learned is that Telford and Wrekin wants in to the WMCA, following Cannock Chase and Tamworth.

The three won't be full members, but rather 'non-constituent' ones. What that means is a seat at the table and voting rights, but no involvement in the devolution deal. That leaves them free to sign up to the Staffordshire MPs' grand Mercia plan as well.

It's all starting to get a little messy. There's also still the issue of a small but vocal group of people who feel rather cheated that they will not get a referendum on the matter.

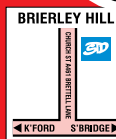

And there's the rub on devolution. It's all meant to be about democracy and putting power in the hands of the people. But as things stand, everyone's going to get what no-one voted for.

Airport profits soar above £30m mark

THE busiest ever year at Birmingham Airport helped profits rocket to more than £30 million as 9.9 million passengers passed through the terminals.

The site's profits rose to £30.6m in the 12 months to the end of March, from £27.9m the year before – a 9.7 per cent increase. The biggest boost came from travellers using its growing number of shops, restaurants and its car parks as turnover at the airport went up by £7m to £121.2m.

The airport made £69.9m from commercial income, up 8.2 per cent. That was twice the growth of its income from charges to airlines, which was up 4.1 per cent to £51.2m.

Airport chief executive Paul Kehoe said: "Looking forward to 2015/16 we have continued to grow passenger numbers and broke the 10 million passenger mark in August 2015 for the first time. This year alone we have welcomed eight new airlines to Birmingham, as more and more carriers realise the strong business and leisure market in the Midlands region, and the airport's investment to offer a world-class facility."

Pan-tastic result for Liam, George, James and Archie getting ready for the Grand panto in Wolverhampton

Four boys flying high after landing roles in Peter Pan

FOUR West Midland boys have landed parts in Wolverhampton Grand Theatre's pantomime Peter Pan.

The roles of Wendy's brothers, Michael and John, will be played by the local lads who join a full professional cast for the festive season.

Archie Turner, aged eight, from Rowley Regis will play Michael alongside James Shaw, 11, from Bishopwood as John. On alternate dates, eight-year-old George Passalacqua from Bromsgrove will play Michael while Liam Hewitt, 10 from Kingswinford will play John.

The four boys were chosen from open auditions held on stage at the Grand Theatre in August by the pantomime's director David Burrows and choreographer Steven Harris.

The pantomime opens on December 12.

The selection process included having to perform a rehearsed poem or monologue, and reading excerpts from the Peter Pan script.

Managing Director of Qdos Entertainment's pantomimes division Michael Harrison said "We're absolutely delighted to welcome Archie, James, George and Liam to our company of performers, and know that they will have a truly memorable Christmas alongside our professional cast".

They will perform 37 shows each during the six-week run of the pantomime which stars The Chuckle Brothers as Paul and Barry Smea and EastEnders' 'Nasty Nick' John Altman as Captain Hook.

The show will be produced by Qdos Entertainment, the world's biggest pantomime producer.

Magic spell attempt led to blaze at man's flat

A LONELY man trying out a 'magic spell' in a bid to make new friends accidentally set fire to his flat in Dudley instead.

Duane Thurstance says he was given instructions at a magic shop to set fire to a life-size cardboard cut-out of a television character.

This he later did at his flat in Broad Street on July 25 last year. The 26-year-old who has mental health issues and cerebral palsy walked out of the building and failed to tell anyone what he had done, Wolverhampton Crown Court was told on Friday.

When the room erupted into flames, other residents in the block of flats were forced to flee to safety outside.

The property suffered £3,000 damage as a result.

Thurstance, who admitted an offence of arson reckless as to whether life was endangered at an earlier hearing, was found by police a short distance away from the scene after people in the area provided a description of him.

Candles

Mr Howard Searle, prosecuting, said: "He admitted that he had started the fire and told the officers he was practising witchcraft to obtain a friend."

"He started a fire so that an appropriate image would appear to him. That didn't happen so he left it."

"It was a life-size cardboard cut-out of a character from a TV series."

He told Wolverhampton Crown Court that at the time the defendant was

by Deborah Hardiman

in breach of a community order for a robbery in 2013.

Mr Stephen Cadwaladr, defending, said: "This offence arose after he was told by people who should have known better at a magic shop, that the spell would help him to meet people he could call friends."

"It consisted of setting down candles in circles and burning a small photo of somebody in a pot placed in the middle. Needless to say it was not successful."

"He says he only intended to singe the cardboard cut-out."

"In this particular case I submit that his culpability is not very high. He is receiving effective treatment from two NHS nurses."

"He needs structure in his life and is getting that at the moment. His problem is that he is vulnerable."

Judge John Walsh said it was a 'troubling' case and sentenced Thurstance, now of Wilbraham Court, Moat Road, Walsall, to a three-year community order.

Aston la vista, baby, with Arnie in Brum

MOVIE star and former governor of California Arnold Schwarzenegger is coming to Brum.

And for the price of £1,500, fans can meet the movie star and have a professional photograph taken with him.

The Terminator star will be the guest of honour at a black tie event at the International Conference Centre on January 21, where he will take part in an on-stage interview.

Ticket prices for the evening begin at £95 for entrance to the event and continue up to £1,500 for a three-course meal, drinks, the ability to meet other as-yet-unconfirmed celebrities, as well as a professional photograph with the star and entrance to a 20-person only meet-and-greet session with the star.

A photograph alone with the star will set you back £545. Arnie will be interviewed by a celebrity and will discuss his life and career as one of Hollywood's biggest stars.

'I blubbed like a baby but I'm still standing'

A PROUD son has created a touching video revealing how his father defied medics who told him he had just one year to live.

Adrian Webb was diagnosed with skin cancer in September 2012 after his wife Michelle noticed a mole on his back had changed colour.

In the video Adrian's son Josh, a 22-year-old deputy manager at Aldi, holds up cards explaining that the cancer spread to his father's lungs, spleen, liver, bowel and spine.

Doctors gave him a year to live, but he has beat the odds and has now pledged to raise £25,000 for Cancer Research UK to help others.

It initially gives the impression Adrian didn't make his 50th birthday this year, but the final clips show Adrian walking into shot with a card reading 'Thanks to research - I'm still standing' and he hugs his wife and 19-year-old daughter Amelia.

The music distribution manager from Netherton credits trial drugs for keeping him alive so far.

He said: "The consultant said I might have as little as 12 months left. I blubbed like a two-year-old because I thought it was all over.

"Once I'd stopped blubbing I said OK what can you do for me? That's when they said that there might be a trial drug option."

So far Adrian has been given three drugs and been told his cancer has shrunk to a trace. He added: "I'm a very positive person. I have to see my daughter get a degree, I have to see both my children get married."

The Stand Up To Cancer fundraising initiative were so impressed with the film they have showcased it on their Facebook page, where it has been viewed more than 5,000 views.

Still standing — Adrian Webb with son Josh, 22, whose video celebrated his determination to survive

Volunteers needed for diabetes support

DIABETES UK is looking for people in Dudley with Type 2 diabetes who are interested in helping to support others who also have the condition.

The charity is pioneering a new service called Type 2 Together, which will connect people who have Type 2 diabetes in local surroundings. Diabetes UK is seeking to recruit and train volunteers with Type 2 diabetes in Dudley to lead these relaxed, informal group sessions.

Peter Shorrick, Midlands Regional Manager for Diabetes UK, said: "We know that people with Type 2 diabetes can often feel worried or unsure about how best to manage their condition. The new service is all about helping people meet others who also have the condition, and supporting them to learn more about how to manage their diabetes better."

Would-be volunteers will need to be able to commit to a day of training and a few hours of volunteering each month. Diabetes UK will provide practical tools and a specialist educator to help support them.

To find out about volunteering, or to register, call 0345 123 2399 or email Type2Together@diabetes.org.uk

Motorway upgrade plans are 're-heated'

A £1.8 billion package of motorway improvements has been branded as 're-heating' old plans announced multiple times over the past five years.

Highways England unveiled 10 projects to cut congestion and improve journeys in the West Midlands at an even in Birmingham.

The schemes include:

Building the M54/M6/M6 Toll link road — first announced in 2003, revived in 2010 and funding committed in 2013.

Constructing two new bridges at junction 10 of the M6 at Walsall to widen the roundabout and create four lanes — announced in July last year by Chancellor George Osborne.

Upgrading the M6 junctions 13-15 from Stafford to Stoke to four lane 'smart motorways' with variable speed limits — first revealed in summer 2013.

M5 improvements between junctions 5 and 7 — announced in December.

Highways England regional director, Tim Harbot said: "These new schemes will bring huge improvements to journeys around the Midlands.

Record

"The Government has committed record funding to specific transport projects here so the Midlands can act as a transport hub for the entire country.

"As Highways England, we're delivering that investment to help to unlock billions for the economy by increasing road capacity, improving the flow of traffic and improving safety and accessibility for all road users."

But Warley MP John Spellar was critical, saying many of the schemes had been announced at least three times in the past year.

He said: "I am absolutely astonished that the transport department and their companies are continuing to re-heat existing proposals and give the impression that they are new.

"Good hardy folk in the Black Country and West Midlands will not be fooled by this. We want less talk and more action. When will they learn?"

A Highways England spokesman said it was the first time the company, which has replaced the Highways Agency in April, had discussed details of the plans.

Officials met with suppliers to set out how the money will be spent to improve the roads.

In total, £600 million will be spent on maintenance, including £160m to resurface more than 900 miles of carriageway, £225m for repairing and renewing structures like bridges and viaducts, and £60m to improve vehicle barriers by 2020.

Bosses said they are yet to choose what route the M54/M6/M6 Toll link road will take.

For first-time buyers

THE Tipton and Coseley Building Society has launched a 100 per cent mortgage to help first-time buyers get on the property ladder. The Tipton's 100 per cent Family Assist mortgage has been designed to help those who don't have a deposit borrow up to 100 per cent of the property's purchase price, with a charge taken against a family member's property as security. It has a variable rate of 3.99 per cent.

Guest digs in for talk about bulbs

Clent Gardening Club

AT the beginning of September the club held the Annual Clent Flower Show in conjunction with Clent WI and there was a splendid array of flowers and produce on display from club members and guests.

The WI members were not to be outdone with their own displays of cakes, preserves and crafts. A large number of parishioners and guests enjoyed the displays and next year it is hoped to hold a bumper show as it will be the show's 70th anniversary.

The club's monthly meeting in September welcomed guest speaker Dr John Page to give a talk on introducing bulbs. His talk was illustrated with a splendid array of photographs of bulbs flowering throughout the year both in the UK and beyond.

He gave advice on the cultivation and care of bulbs with different varieties requiring different levels of care and attention which was attentively received by his audience.

At the end of the meeting the chairman announced the results of the monthly competitions and reminded members that the next monthly meeting is on Friday October 23 when Ingrid Millington will give a seasonal talk entitled Autumn in the Garden.

Meetings which are held at Clent Village Hall on the fourth Friday each month. Visit <https://clentgardeningclub.wordpress.com> or call chairman Martin Grange 01562 883009 or 07917 184762 for more details.

Evening not to be missed for villagers

Relating history of Lunar Society

Amblecote History Society

THE next meeting of the Amblecote History Society will take place on Wednesday, October 14, starting at 7.30pm in the Furnace Theatre at The Ruskin Centre in Amblecote.

The speaker will be Andrew Lound who will relate the story of one of the most influential groups in the 18th century, the Lunar Society, whose interests in astronomy based on new research has revealed some surprising facts.

Andrew presents his Odyssey dramatic presentation about the astronomical work of James Watt, Matthew Boulton & Joseph Priestley - a dramatic presentation, beautifully illustrated and accompanied by music and presented with 18th century flair! Not to be missed, so arrive early to get a good seat in the larger theatre at The Ruskin Centre.

Visitors are always most welcome at a small admission charge of £2 on the door.

The society meets on every second Wednesday of the month and enjoys a varied programme with outdoor meetings during the summer months.

To learn more about the society and the remainder of the 2015 meeting programme as well as to access many interesting articles and photographs of the area visit: www.amblecotehistorysociety.org.uk

Sedgley Local History Society

THE first Andrew Barnett & Trevor Genge Memorial Lecture takes place tonight (Thursday October 8) at 7.30pm in St Andrew's Church, Bilston Street, Sedgley. The speaker is Ned Williams the well known Black Country historian and author.

Ned explores the Gornals (the subject of his 50th book) and shares his warm affection for the villagers and their traditions. This illustrated presentation reflects a flavour of Black Country life still around, but fast disappearing.

For past and present Gornal folk it is an evening not to be missed.

As usual visitors are invited to come along - admission £1. Annual membership of the society costs £5 and gives free access to the programme of talks.

Schoolteachers Andrew Barnett and Trevor Genge were co-founders of the Sedgley Local History Society in 1984. Andrew launched the Sedgley Local History Museum, which closed in 2004, and Trevor published five books on the Sedgley Manor villages. Both were avid researchers and staunch supporters of conservation projects.

Odes on experience of life

MEMBERS and visitors met on September 23. The meeting began with the speaker Ken Gilkes whose talk was entitled Odes of Life and Laughter.

He began by saying how boring his life is and how he only knows what day it is according to which breakfast he is given.

This struck a chord with the group and then from start to finish the ladies never stopped laughing as he recited his odes, written in response to his experiences of life. MyTime Over Fifties meets in the Amblecote Room at Stourbridge Town Hall on the fourth Wednesday in the month. The next meeting is on October 28 when Linda Ellis will update the group on macular degeneration. For more details call Audrey on 01384 864223 or Graham on 01384 993499.

MyTime Over Fifties

Slimmer Kelly sets example

A WOMAN who shed eight stone in weight will be sharing her success and experiences with others after launching her own slimming class.

Kelly Sansome, 43, of Wynall Lane, Wollescote, decided to take action following a terrifying experience where she struggled to breathe and had to be put on oxygen.

The mother-of-two was about to turn 40 at the time and weighed nearly 20st.

But after joining a slimming group at Dingle Community Centre, in Kingswinford, Mrs Sansome says she has never looked back.

She now weighs a much healthier 11st and says she is all the happier for it and has been inspired to help others achieve the same success via her own slimming class at Gig Mill Primary School, in Norton.

Puppy dog tale all over internet

Susan Nock with eight-week-old Ollie, who has become an internet superstar

A CUTE dog's tale of woe – combined with an adorable home video – has taken the internet by storm.

The 16-second clip of eight-week-old Bichon Frise, Ollie, has been viewed by more than 1.2 million people across the planet in a matter of days.

The short video shows the pup enjoying having his stomach rubbed.

Owners Chris and Susan Nock, from Stourbridge, only posted the video on Facebook after being told by vets that Ollie was fighting for his life.

Recovery

They were told he may not survive 48 hours – after falling ill just two days after his new owners had collected him.

A blood test revealed Ollie had E.coli and the pet has since made a full recovery.

Peer is tempted to run for mayor role

DIGBY Jones, one of the most prominent figures in British business has admitted he is "sorely tempted" by the idea of running as mayor of his native West Midlands.

But Lord Jones of Birmingham said the chances of putting himself forward as head of the region's new combined authority were currently no more than "five or ten per cent". He was talking during a business mini-conference on board the Queen Elizabeth cruise liner at the weekend, organised by Black County property tycoon Roy Richardson and his family.

Senior company executives and leading figures from the business community took part in a series of debates on the combined authority and what it could mean for the region.

Lord Jones said big metropolitan councils like Wolverhampton and Birmingham would need to give up powers to make the new authority effective "but turkeys don't vote for Christmas."

Call for flag comment apology during historian's visit to city

THE man who branded the Black Country flag 'offensive' because of the connection between chains and slavery has been urged to apologise when he visits this weekend.

Historian Patrick Vernon is coming to Wolverhampton as part of Black History Month to give a talk on the Windrush generation of Caribbean migrants.

The London-based but Wolverhampton-born campaigner sparked fury in July when he branded the flag, designed by a 12-year-old Dudley schoolgirl to celebrate the Black Country's industrial heritage, as 'insensitive'.

Mr Vernon, who faced calls to hand back his OBE after sparking the row, will give a talk at Wolverhampton Art Gallery, before presenting a film about the life of Jamaican Second World War pilot Eddie Martin Noble at the Light House Media Centre the same day.

Sedgley UKIP MEP Bill Etheridge said: "Perhaps Mr Vernon can take the opportunity to learn more about Black Country history and understand the real relevance of the chain to the flag. It would not be amiss for him to apologise for the offence he caused." Ian Austin, Labour MP for Dudley North, said: "Perhaps while he is in the Black Country Patrick Vernon will see the deep sense of pride that people from all backgrounds have and see how this region lit the spark that fired the industrial revolution."

Mr Vernon, aged 54, said: "I am very familiar with the Black Country industrial heritage and history. If local people wish to learn more about the slave trade and its links with the Black Country, I would encourage them to visit the various archives and museums in Dudley, Sandwell and Wolverhampton."

Tenants urged to get involved

RESIDENTS are invited to a housing conference in a bid to encourage more people to get involved in the running of their estates.

The Dudley Council housing conference, which is open to anyone living on the borough's council housing estates, will promote opportunities for tenants, leaseholders and residents to get involved in how housing services are delivered.

It will take place on October 29 at Saltwells Education Centre, in Bowling Green Road, Netherton. Lunch and refreshments will be provided. There will be speakers at the event.

FOCUS ON BLACKHEATH AND ROWLEY REGIS

Union and parents protest over proposed nursery cuts

SANDWELL Council is set to launch a second year of a scheme designed to increase the number of youngsters who borrow books from its libraries.

The Booktastic project has helped to double the number of four and five-year-olds taking out books.

Council bosses say the scheme, which gives children in Sandwell library membership and access to free books, has helped bring more children into libraries than ever before.

The scheme was thought up by Councillor Simon Hackett, cabinet member for children's services, who will launch it at Blackheath Library next Friday.

He said: "This is a first step towards getting children to read for pleasure."

"Statistics show children who read from a young age are more likely to do well in education."

Warning after bicycle thefts

PUSH bikes have been stolen in Blackheath prompting a police appeal for information and a warning to cyclists to remain vigilant.

Officers say bikes have been stolen from areas including Shepherds Fold and High Street in recent weeks.

Residents have been asked to be aware and report any suspicious activity.

Any witnesses are asked to call the police on 101.

DOZENS of parents have signed a petition opposing plans to cut provision at a nursery.

Rowley Owls Nursery, which is run by neighbouring Rowley Hall Primary School, has launched a consultation on proposals to change the care offered at the nursery.

This would include axing care for children up to two years old and getting rid of care outside of term time.

The move comes just weeks after the nursery was given a requires improvement Ofsted report – an improvement on the inadequate ranking the nursery received in February.

The school said the proposals are intended to 'improve standards' at the nursery.

GMB, the union for school support staff, held a protest at the nursery on Friday.

Garage owner Sarah Turbutt said she is worried about what the proposals will mean for her son, 14-month-old son Arley, who currently attends the nursery, while four-year-old Noah has just started at Rowley Hall Primary from the nursery.

Mrs Turbutt, of Rowley Regis, said: "It's a really distressing time for all parents. We get a good service here, it's like a family, and the new Ofsted report showed it's going in the right direction."

GMB branch secretary

by David Cosgrove

Darren James said he was concerned, adding: "It's very disappointing that they want to do this."

"Why are they doing this now after getting a better Ofsted report than they had back in February?"

Changes to staff contracts could also leave some out of pocket to the tune of £2,000, according to Mr James.

Nicola Stanley, headteacher at Rowley Hall Primary, said: "Governors have put forward a proposal to change the way we run Rowley Owls Nursery in order to improve standards."

"At this stage it is just a proposal and we are conducting a consultation to find out opinions from all of our stakeholders."

"Our governors will take into account all views before coming to any decision about the future of the nursery."

More than 100 homes to be built

MORE than 100 homes, most of them four-bedroomed houses, are to be built on the site of a former college in Rowley Regis.

The former St Michael's Business and Enterprise College site in Thorne Road will be demolished after councillors approved plans submitted by Redrow Homes to build 123 properties.

The building has been empty since the college moved to a new site in 2010.

Houses

Developers say 80 of the properties would be four-bedroom houses with 34 three-bedroom houses, plus nine would be flats.

Councillor Steve Trow said it was 'great that the site was being brought back into use'.

Sandwell Council unanimously approved the plan.

Bursary help for student

A ROWLEY Regis student is among three top students from the Black Country who have been given bursary awards by exam body OCR towards studying at the University of Cambridge.

Anoop Sumal, 18, who attended Sandwell Academy, will be reading medicine at Selwyn College.

Recipients of OCR bursaries receive £3,000 for each year of their undergraduate studies for living and/or tuition costs.

Business pals help to furnish homes for veterans

TWO best friends from Brierley have put their DIY skills to the test by lending a helping hand to veterans in Manchester — and their work can be seen on a popular TV show.

David Perry and Jamie Wood, from Stourbridge, were approached by DIY SOS to help them spend two weeks transforming streets in Newton Heath for former soldiers to move into with their families.

Reclaimed

The team behind the BBC programme, hosted by Nick Knowles, wanted to see whether the fledgling furniture company could help towards their latest project.

The former Stourbridge College students, both 28, jumped at the chance.

101 Furniture, which started last year, specialises in making industrial-style furniture out of reclaimed timber and steel.

They donated a large outdoor dining table and benches to the project, as well as a four-seater garden bistro table with four matching stools.

They were used as part of a project to help transform eight existing houses for forces veterans to be featured in the BBC One two-part programme DIY SOS special that will be seen on TV on October 14 and 21 on BBC1, both episodes from 8pm.

Jail for motorist who almost hit runners

A DRINK-driver who drove onto a Birmingham 10K course run, narrowly missing runners, has been jailed for 14 months.

Unemployed Ibrar Shazad Boston, ignored marshalls at the Morrison's Great Birmingham 10k Road Race on May 3 and drove his blue Renault Megane over grass and a pavement. Police spotted Boston gesticulating at a council worker in a road sweeper who was blocking his path on Pershore Road. As motorbike officer approached Boston drove off at speed, narrowly missing runners and just missing the police bike. Boston drove through cones along Sherlock Street, before colliding with railings and abandoning the vehicle. He was arrested nearby.

The 35-year-old of Cooksey Road, Small Heath, pleaded guilty to dangerous driving and with excess alcohol at Birmingham Crown Court where he was banned from driving for over four years.

Refugees are human: Ex-target of Taliban

A MAN who fled the tyranny of the Taliban in Afghanistan has called on people to remember that there are human beings behind the numbers, in the midst of the Syrian refugee situation.

His comments came in the wake of some councils in the region asking for guarantees of further Government funding before taking on their share of 20,000 Syrians due to come to the UK.

The councils' concerns drew sympathy from Rohulla Yakobi, who was tortured in his native Afghanistan when he was just 12 years old.

The 28-year-old father of two, from Oxley, Wolverhampton, came to Britain in 2004 and now works with the Human Security Centre, a think tank in London.

He said: "It's entirely understandable that they may resist more people coming into their area, given the budgetary constraints councils are going through, particularly if an asylum seeker is not allowed to work and contribute.

"Someone arriving as I did will have no sense of Britishness and will have to find their own way.

"But I've never doubted the generosity of the British people and I'm delighted to be a British citizen myself.

"When we look at statistics and figures like this we do not see the human beings. We forget the human side of the crisis.

"What we're talking

Rohullah Yakobi — fled tyranny in Afghanistan about here are numbers, costs, housing and so on. We have to remember that there are people at the heart of this."

● The Chronicle would like to clarify that the photograph used of Mr Yakobi and his family in last week's edition was intended to illustrate his comments on the Syrian refugees issue. However, his quotes weren't used and subsequently we would like to apologise to Mr Yakobi for any inconvenience or distress caused by this.

Island restaurant gets the go-ahead

MULTI-MILLION pound plans for a restaurant at Birchley Island in Oldbury have been given the green light.

The restaurant between the island and the M5 slip road will create 80 full-time and part-time jobs and will be part of the Greene King's Farmhouse Inn chain.

The site has previously been earmarked for a hotel and casino but both schemes failed to get off the ground.

The land will now be put into use after Sandwell Council gave planning permission to the restaurant scheme.

Developer St Modwen said work on the building work will begin next year.

The Farmhouse Inns chain of restaurants offer diners a daily carvery and are known for their large cakes. The scheme also includes a car park with 95 spaces.

The 13,811 sq ft restaurant will have two entrances to accommodate those visiting to enjoy a meal and those using only the bar.

In 2011, planning permission was granted for a casino and an 80-bed hotel on the site, which is bounded by the A4123 Wolverhampton Road to the south. The £6 million project ever got off the ground.

Shrek's trek is one that cannot be ogre-rated

Shrek, The Musical
Wolverhampton Grand Theatre
By Graeme Andrew

INGENIOUS costumes, amazing sets, belly laughs throughout and superb music – Shrek rules!

William Steig's story of an ogre who finds love and friendship in a bid to secure his swamp after being overrun by ousted fairytale creatures, has translated brilliantly from the big screen to the musical stage.

Wolverhampton's Grand Theatre resounded with roars of uncontrollable laughter as we were whisked along on the road to Duloc and beyond, as Shrek and Donkey follow their quest to rescue Princess Fiona from the clutches of the dragon.

Amazing

With a host of new musical numbers to provide the narrative – showing off the cast's amazing vocal ability – the storyline closely followed the first Shrek film with a few hidden extras thrown in, to the delight of the crowd.

But the production really took off when Lord Farquaad was introduced into the proceedings. The staging problem of representing his, erm, 'limited' stature was dealt with ingeniously, with hilarious results. And canny old-hand theatre stalwart Gerard Carey absolutely makes the most of it, inducing tears of laughter with his antics.

Certainly the star of the show when it comes to the comedy aspect, there were many stand-out turns – Bronte Barbe as Fiona was top class with an amazing voice, and she too showed a deft comic touch.

Dean Chisnall, in the lead, is given the hardest job, trying to carry off a central acting role while wearing a no-doubt cumbersome Shrek suit and make-up, but he did well, showing real vulnerability when required, both in song and acting.

And Idriss Kargbo had a hard act to follow with Eddie Murphy's unforgettable performance as Donkey in the movies, but he acquitted himself well, bringing a touch of Cat from Red Dwarf with him.

Ex-Eastender Nigel Harman (remember Dennis Rickman?), who won plaudits as Farquaad himself in the West End, is the director and keeps the action ticking over nicely.

Meanwhile musical director Dave Rose is obviously an accomplished vocal arranger, as harmonies were brilliantly executed and many of the characters proved their worth, bringing singing power to blow the audience away, in particular Christina Modestou with her soulful voice for Dragon. Mention must be made too on the staging, with swift scenery changes and amazing sets.

The supporting cast had to work hard taking on multiple roles and at no point did I find myself thinking we'd seen any of the faces in other guises.

Puppet

There must have been some super-rapid changes, including three people dressed in black bringing to life Dragon, as a huge puppet, which was remarkably close in appearance to the Dreamworks' movie original.

It's an old cliché – something for everyone – but on this occasion, one that fits the bill.

And with performances running until Sunday, there is still a chance for fans to get their fill of fairytales, magic and laughter.

Peace ready to make Civic happy

PEACE will give fans one last chance to see them on their Happy People tour before re-treating to the country.

The band from Worcestershire will line up at Wolverhampton's Civic Hall on Saturday. And then, they'll disappear for six months.

Frontman Harry Koisser says: "We're moving to a house in the middle of the countryside together and we're working on the new album immediately after the tour. So for the next six months we'll be working on the album."

"To be fair it's already all written we just need to record it. We want to rehearse it. Sometimes it takes a band five years to write a record and I'm just 'what are you doing?' It'll take me a week and a half to write a record."

Peace have had an incredible summer, playing Glastonbury for the second time as well as sets at Reading and Leeds.

"It's been fun. We started in Australia in March and it just seems like the longest summer and to be honest I just want winter."

The band have got celebrity followers with ex-England footballer Peter Crouch appearing in a video.

"Peter Crouch and Abby Clancy are big fans, which is really cool. I met Noel Gallagher in Scotland at T in the Park. We were introduced by someone and he was like 'Noel this is Harry' and he looked at me was like 'are you in a band or something?' and I said 'yeah I'm in a band called Peace' and he was like 'AHHHH! PEACE!' And he said 'Craig Silvey

Peace with Harry Koisser, centre front, are about to work on their third album

(producer of Peace's Happy People and Noel Gallagher's Chasing Yesterday) played me your album and it was amazing". Noely G had just given me a compliment."

Harry can't wait to play Wolverhampton. "Wolverhampton Civic is a big deal to be honest. This is the last tour we're going to be doing for what's going to feel a really long time. We love Wolverhampton, with exception of two members of the entire touring party (including support bands Yak and Splashh), everyone's from the West Midlands. It's going to be a big celebration."

Tale of Anita and Meera too

WHEN the world premiere of Meera Syal's much-loved Anita and Me is unveiled at Birmingham REP tomorrow night (Friday), it will feature the most unusual star.

The leading light won't be an actor, actress or, indeed, the writer Meera Syal. An impressive cast including Jalleh Alizadeh, Mandeep Dhillon, Ameet Chana and Ayesha Dharker won't take centre stage. Instead the star will be Wolverhampton, the grand old city where Meera was born and raised.

The multi-award-winning Syal wrote her poignant coming-of-age tale about Meena, the irreverent teenage daughter of the only Punjabi family in the mining village of Tollington.

Syal is delighted to be bringing her life in Wolverhampton to the stage. "Well I was born in New Cross Hospital, so it is indeed my birth town, right there on my passport."

Pinnacle

"I then lived in Willenhall briefly before we moved to Essington when I was a year old, so my childhood was spent in the countryside."

"However we did go to Wolverhampton for all our big shopping trips and the pinnacle of every visit was the Mander Centre."

Syal is best-known for TV creations on hits like Goodness Gracious Me and The Kumars at No 42. She wrote Anita and Me in 1997 and it was made into a film in 2002.

She can't wait for the curtain to go up on the theatrical version, at Birmingham REP until October 24.

"The Rep is of course the perfect place for this very Midland story and Tanika Gupta, who has adapted the book is not only a brilliant playwright but also a very dear friend, so it couldn't be in better hands."

Mandeep Dhillon (Meena) and Jalleh Alizadeh (Anita) rehearse for Anita and Me

It's strictly drag for Craig's musical role

LIFE'S become a bit of a drag for Simply Come Dancing judge Craig Revel Horwood, who is putting on the panto to play Miss Hannigan in the revival of the Tomorrow musical Annie at Birmingham Hippodrome.

The choreographer and director returns to the stage for a role he shares with Birds of a Feather star Lesley Joseph when Strictly duties intervene on a Saturday.

The musical will be at the Hippodrome from October 13 to 31 — see www.birminghamhippodrome.com or call 0844 338 5000 — and returns to the West Midlands in April at Wolverhampton Grand with Lesley Joseph dishing out the Hard Knock Life.

Double date with 1980s hitmakers

POWER ballad 80s stars T'Pau have two local gigs. The China In Your Hand outfit fronted by Carol Decker are at Robin 2 Bilston tomorrow (Fri), and are guests of Go West and Nik Kershaw at Symphony Hall on Tuesday.

Key gigs include Treetop Flyers at the Sunflower Lounge in central Brum tonight (Thu), the same night Metric unveil album Pagans In Vegas at The Institute. Check out Rae Morris on Sunday and soul singer KWABS on Monday at The Institute. Gengahr are at the Hare & Hounds in Kings Heath on Monday, when Du Blonde and Goodbye Lenin play the other room.

The eyes have it for a Grand favourite

THE Grand's favourite panto dame, Ceri Dupree, returns with a tribute to the divas in EYEcons, the female impersonator's new show on Tuesday at the Wolverhampton theatre.

The Upbeat Beatles revive memories of the Fab Four at the Lichfield Street venue on Wednesday and Ministry of Science Live bring explosive experiments for matinee and evening shows on Thursday.

The week of one-nighters is rounded off by Britain's Got Talent opera star Paul Potts in concert on October 16 and a saucy Evening of Burlesque on October 17. See www.grandtheatre.co.uk or call 01902 429212.

A real hot shot – the Vhujon in Bewdley

The shared starter comes with three Indian snacks

The Murgh Chettinad was sweet and spicy with a rich and hot sauce

This restaurant is real hot stuff

PUBS, hairdressers and curry houses have dominated the small town centre of Bewdley over the years.

At one point you were spoilt for choice if you wanted to go for a swift pint, cut and blow dry or a spicy dinner.

But as time has passed and the recession has taken hold, some businesses have struggled to stay afloat and have fallen by the wayside.

It seems residents have tightened their belts and the Indian restaurants have taken a hit. At one point there were four restaurants within a 100-metre stretch, and a balti.

The old favourite that has stood the test of time is still going strong. The cheap and cheerful one, which I've never gone to. The modern-trying-to-be-posh option which has recently shut up shop, as has the bring your own booze balti. But then there's the Vhujon, a contemporary Indian with a stylish interior and a mix of traditional and more unusual dishes.

It's still there, still popular and is always busy enough to need to book a table on a Friday or Saturday night. It has a lively buzz with a chatty atmosphere in an intimate setting. Its contemporary furnishings make it look clean and fresh, although it could probably do with a bit of attention if they decide to give it a revamp.

By Lisa Williams

We didn't book. We didn't think it would be packed. But for a Wednesday evening there was a surprisingly steady flow of diners which made the atmosphere nice. Relaxed but vibrant.

Wine was ordered as we contemplated menu. There was a lot to take in – starters, chicken, lamb, beef, seafood and biryani dishes along with tandoori specialities, vegetarian, balti and traditional. There are also veggie accompaniments, rice, naans and other sundries.

Of course we ordered poppadoms, a necessity. They were lovely. Crispy, crunchy discs with a slight oiliness. The condiments were yummy too. As we were devouring them our starter to share arrived – Sabzi Labra, a trio of Indian snacks a samosa, onion bhajee and mushroom pakora, all of which were tasty. Each had a good amount of filling and was nicely seasoned. The pakora batter was a bright, eye-watering, neon orange and could have done with a bit more mushroom stuffed inside its glowing coat.

Once these were done and dusted our mains were next. Feeling brave I'd gone for the Murgh Chettinad, described as hot and spicy chicken cooked with a mix of onion, crushed red chillies and cranberries.

Fiery

It was hot but not take-off-a-layer-of-skin-from-the-roof-of-your-mouth kind of blazing. It had an almost sweet and sour flavour with the plump, rich cranberries giving a sharp taste to the chicken and the fiery chilli adding the taste explosion. To counteract the fierce heat I'd gone for a rather plain but very fluffy and perfectly cooked boiled rice along with a wholesome chapati to mop up the sauce.

My friend had gone for a classic chicken Madras with mushroom pilau rice. The Madras, she said, was nice and spicy but not at all greasy. We'd also decided on a tarka dhal as a side which tasted absolutely divine, a nice smooth texture with a wholesome lentil flavour and some seasoning we couldn't quite put our fingers on. It complemented the curry and was aromatic without being too overpowering. The mushroom pilau was also a hit.

Neither of us went for the customary naan bread as they seemed too heavy and filling with all the food we had to get through.

There was no room for dessert, though they did have quite a vast selection mainly of pre-made ice cream pots along with a couple of more traditional options.

The staff were friendly and attentive without being intrusive, kept the table cleared and made sure we had everything we needed. It's a very efficient and well-oiled machine with fantastic food.

The bill came with After Eight mints, very 70s but welcome to take away the heat, along with a little pot of minuscule liquorice torpedoes, pretty reasonable at just shy of £45. We decided this is one restaurant that certainly curries favour.

Doctor Who (BBC1, 8.25pm)
The concluding edition of a two-part tale – told in reverse – takes the Time Lord to a remote Army outpost, where a fearsome alien warlord known as The Fisher King sets in motion a devious plan to ensure his own survival. As his plot takes effect, the ripples of his actions are felt across the universe in what seems to be an unstoppable chain of cause and reaction. With the consequences spiraling out of control, the Doctor seeks to bring the devastation to an end – but doing so might mean he has to do the unthinkable. Sci-fi drama, starring Peter Capaldi and Jenna Coleman, with guests Paul Kaye and Peter Serafinowicz.

7.15 Rugby World Cup. England v Uruguay (Kick-off 8.00pm). John Inverdale presents coverage of the final match in Pool A, which takes place at Manchester City Stadium. There has only been one previous meeting between these nations prior to this clash, which took place at the 2003 World Cup in Australia. That fixture was an incredibly one-sided affair, as England recorded an emphatic 111-13 triumph in what was also their concluding pool-stage match of that tournament. Anything other than an English win tonight will be seen as a huge surprise, and Stuart Lancaster will hope the expected victory proves to be as good an omen for the current side, given that the 2003 squad went on to lift the Webb Ellis Cup. With analysis from Jonny Wilkinson, Clive Woodward and Lawrence Dallaglio, and commentary by Nick Mullins and Ben Kay.

Claire Danes

Homeland
(Channel 4, 9pm)

One of the most talked about American dramas of recent years is back for a new run, and life seems a little easier for Homeland's bipolar heroine Carrie Mathison (Claire Danes). When we first met her in 2012, she was trying to ascertain whether Nicholas Brody, the US soldier and PoW, had been turned by al-Qaeda and was planning an atrocity on American soil. When we catch up with her, it's two years since the on/off CIA officer's tenure as Islamabad station chief. Series five sees her in Berlin, estranged from the CIA and employed as a German philanthropist's head of security. In episode one, Carrie's peace is threatened when a request from her boss forces her back towards the dangerous world she left behind.

FILM CHOICES

MONDAY
The Good Witch's Gift, Channel 5, 3.15pm
Cassandra Nightingale's fiance proposes and they decide to get married at Christmas – leaving very little time to prepare for the big day. However, their marriage is threatened when a face from the groom's past arrives in town. Family drama sequel, starring Catherine Bell, Chris Potter and Laura Bertram. (2010)

TUESDAY
Good Witch, Bad Witch, Channel 5, 3.15pm
Cassandra Nightingale runs for mayor and considers starting a family, while also receiving a visit from her estranged niece. While seemingly helpful and friendly, the newfound relative is secretly jealous of Cassandra's perfect life and seeks to turn her friends against her. Fourth in the drama series, starring Catherine Bell and Matthew Knight. (2011)

WEDNESDAY
Client Seduction, Channel 5, 3.15pm
A lawyer who has made her career defending wealthy clients decides to perform an act of charity by representing a homeless man accused of murder. However, as the case gets under way, she realises the defendant is guilty, and that he is seducing her daughter as part of a plot to avoid justice. Thriller, starring Ally Sheedy and Rhys Ward. (2014)

The Disappearance of Alice Creed, Friday, BBC1, 11.50pm

THURSDAY
Tombstone, Channel 5, 10pm
Renowned marshal Wyatt Earp becomes a professional gambler in the town of Tombstone, but is forced out of his retirement to take on a gang of hellraising villains no one else is prepared to stand up to. Joining forces with his brothers and drunken gunslinger Doc Holliday, he gets ready to face them in a showdown at the OK Corral. Western, starring Kurt Russell, Val Kilmer and Bill Paxton. (1993)

FRIDAY
The Disappearance of Alice Creed, BBC1, 11.50pm
Two criminals kidnap the daughter of a wealthy family, with the intention of demanding a ransom. However, the hostage is not the helpless victim she appears. Thriller, with Gemma Arterton, Eddie Marsan and Martin Compston. (2009)

River banks on success in his latest murder case

Given the BBC's passion for Euro thrillers such as Spiral, The Killing and Wallander, it was inevitable that we'd see more dramas mixed the best talent from here and there.

And when it comes to A-list Scandinavian talent, you don't get much better than Stellan Skarsgård.

Okay, some of his dad dancing in Mamma Mia may have been questionable, but his string of credits, from Good Will Hunting and the US version of Girl With The Dragon Tattoo have helped make him one of Hollywood's go-to guys when searching for Swedish talent.

Here he plays John River, a brilliant but troubled police officer, while Nicola Walker almost steals the show as his late colleague, Detective Sergeant Jackie 'Stevie' Stevenson, a lover of cheesy music and fast food.

When a murder suspect jumps to his death while being pursued by River, the pressure and scrutiny that surrounds him escalates fast.

As the investigation into Stevie's murder begins to reveal her deepest secrets, our hero has to question everything he thought he knew about his friend.

Stellan admits it's not the easiest of dramas to sum up.

"If it was a normal TV series it would be rather easy to tell you about it but it's not and that's why I'm in it," he explains. "You could say it's a crime story on the surface, but it's really more about a person's breakdown or his psychological status."

All brilliant TV detectives need a gimmick, whether it's Fitz's gambling or Ironside's wheelchair, and John River's selling point is his fractured mental state.

"We've heard a lot about people that hear voices, but he actually sees those people as well that he's talking to, and very often it is victims of crime that pop up and have conversations with him. They're not like ghosts, they're his own creations."

Penned by acclaimed writer Abi Morgan, one of the brains behind Shame, The Iron Lady, and new movie Suffragette, her script was a key reason the actor signed up.

"I took the job for her writing because it doesn't look like anything else," explains Stellan. "Her writing is not linear. It's more filled with odd impulses."

"It throws you from one thought to another thought in a less organised way, and to me that resembles life much more than a lot of the writing you get which is extremely structured and polished and is by the book of 'How to Write a Screenplay'."

Obviously cast and crew are hoping the series proves a hit, but as four of Skarsgård's recent films grossed more than $400million between them, and with more helpings of Thor and Avengers on the way, finding time to make series two might be a little tricky.

However, with a fine supporting cast, including Adeel Akhtar as Detective Sergeant Ira King; Lesley Manville as Chief Inspector Chrissie Read, and Eddie Marsan as a killer who harasses the eponymous crime buster, hopefully this is one River that will run and run.

Stellan Skarsgard stars in River, Tuesday, BBC1, 9pm

BEST OF THE REST

The Great British Bake Off - Masterclass BBC2, 7pm
If you're one of the millions of viewers who have spent the past few weeks marvelling over The Great British Bake Off, then the likes of Nadiya Jamir Hussain, Tamal Ray and Ian Cumming have become minor yet worthy TV stars. Chances are their skills in the GBBO tent may have inspired you to dig out that dusty cake tin and have a go at your own adventures in the kitchen. Of course, inspiration is one thing, but good, solid guidance doesn't hurt either, and that's where this series comes in handy. 'Proving' they know what they're talking about, no-nonsense judges Paul Hollywood (aka 'the male judge') and Mary Berry take over the tent to demonstrate how the contest's challenges should be done with a series of tutorials.

TUESDAY
Girls to Men Channel 4, 10pm
Channel 4's Born in the Wrong Body strand, which explores the lives of young transgender people in Britain and America, continues. This time, the spotlight falls on the experiences of three young Britons, who have opted to undergo extraordinary surgical procedures to fulfil their dreams of living as men. Making use of unprecedented access to the operating theatre, the film outlines the surgeons remove breasts and craft functioning penises for their patients. The documentary also explores the confident online community of young trans men, who have started to bare all on social media.

WEDNESDAY
The Apprentice BBC1, 9pm
New series. Alan Sugar begins his 11th search for a new business partner, offering the hopefuls a £250,000 investment in a new start-up company. This year, Claude Litterer replaces Nick Hewer as Lord Sugar's new advisor and 'eyes and ears' alongside Karen Brady. As usual, the millionaire gives the candidates his introductory pep talk, after which the entrepreneurs are divided into teams for the first task – selling two fish-based products to hungry Londoners. The pressure to perform is on, and the contestants are reminded of just how unforgiving the process is when they arrive in the boardroom, where the challenge is picked apart and one candidate is fired.

The Apprentice, Wednesday, BBC1, 9pm

THURSDAY
George Clarke's Amazing Spaces Channel 4, 8pm
Two sheds have got to be better than one, right? Well, not for a couple featured in this week's programme. Their garden has been the home of two air raid shelters for more than 70 years. These structures are showing their age, and now the owners want to turn them into rather swanky sheds – the problem is, they can't agree who will take charge of which. Hopefully George can mediate for them. Also appearing is Guinnie who, at the tender age of 12, is the series' youngest-ever designer. She's getting help from her builder dad to turn a book-based school project into a reality. Meanwhile, master craftsman Will Hardie visits a beach hut worth £1million and continues work on his and George's rather more modest project. George himself takes another trip to Germany to see how a water tower has been turned into a luxury home.

FRIDAY
TFI Friday Channel 4, 8pm
New series. Chris Evans follows up his one-off edition aired in June, with the first of a brand new series of the lively entertainment show mixing music and chat with stunts and skits, proving that the 'farewell-to-all-that' nature of the previous offering was a little premature. Despite ongoing commitments to Radio 2 and now BBC Two's Top Gear, the host has managed to find time to schedule eight new programmes into his diary, and it will be interesting to see whether the unpredictable, wild nature of the former incarnation can be replicated on an ongoing basis.

Piers Morgan's Life Stories ITV, 9pm
Warwick Davis, who stands at 3ft 6, talks to Piers about his life and career, which includes supporting roles in both the Harry Potter and Star Wars films. The actor and presenter opens up about the struggles he and his wife Sam faced when starting a family.

Giving rivals run for money

By John Griffiths

Kadjar . . . it's an unusual name which will make you think. And that's good for Renault because its new model is certainly worth a second look.

For the Kadjar is big brother to the Captur, Renault's first crossover which in three years has become Europe's best-seller in the highly competitive b-segment SUV market.

The new car is based on the larger Megane platform, as is its close relation the popular Nissan Qashqai which ironically will be one of its main rivals.

It has chunky yet aerodynamic styling, the interior space and practicality of an estate car and, on top specification models the option of all wheel drive. Plus it has that high, 'command' driving position which is one reason SUVs now account for 27 per cent of all sales for this size of family car.

While beauty is in the eye of the beholder, the new Kadjar has curvy, contemporary styling with its origins unmistakable.

It's also roomy, with space for five adults (including six-footers in the back) plus one of the biggest cargo boots in its class.

But it's clear Renault, as something of a late-comer to the market, is once again out to capture sales from rivals such as the Qashqai and Kuga as prices are very competitive.

There are 18 versions costing from £17,995 to £21,695 which, like for like model is up to £2,000 less than its rivals, and along with a thrifty range of engines will also impact on tax bills for company drivers.

When you first get behind the wheel of a Kadjar it conveys the feeling that this is a big car, and a well equipped one too (starting with the ultra clear virtual instrument display).

The seats (back as well as front) are soft and sculpted, while the high seating position and large areas of glass – including a 'third row' window in the c-pillar – offer outstanding visibility. Within seconds, you feel this is a nice place to be: it is a 'feel good' car.

There are two diesel options, a 1.6 litre 130Ps version which packs plenty of punch and a 1.5 litre which still performs well on the road but is more economical, capable according to official figures of averaging 74.3mpg with either six-speed manual or automatic gearboxes, with a tax-busting 99g/km of CO2 emissions. The 130Ps engine has an advantage for acceleration and overtaking but, on two-wheel drive models, still results in an average 65.7mpg and a low 113g/km of CO2.

You do soon appreciate the hefty 320Nm of torque at a low 1,750rpm, which means the 130Ps-equipped Kadjar pulls strongly in every gear for relaxed but satisfying driving.

Balanced against its greater economy, the lower-powered 1.5 litre diesel loses out a little on acceleration, but it still does 0 to 62 in under 12 seconds. Perhaps more relevant to most drivers, it cruises at motorway speeds with a quiet and relaxed demeanour.

If you want the four wheel drive option, this is only available with the higher specification versions and the 130Ps diesel.

There is a three-position selector button – 'auto' for slippery roads when the electronics split the torque between front and rear axes according to conditions, 'lock' which puts the system in full-time four wheel drive if you venture off-road and the third option of front wheel drive only, to save fuel in normal road driving.

The petrol option sounds tiny for a car of this class – just 1.2 litres – but it is Renault's already proven turbocharged power plant. It's been revamped to produce a faster pick-up and response, and with 130PS matches the typical two-litre, normally aspirated petrol engine of just a few years ago.

While the Kadjar is relatively tall, with the advantages of visibility and ease of access, suspension and steering are tuned primarily for road use which make it feel as nimble as a typical saloon or estate rival.

There's no sense that this is an SUV with harsh, long travel suspension, and the electric power steering is progressively weighed so you can turn in with confidence and precision, and without any anticipation of unsettling body roll. The power steering and big wheel arches allow a tight turning circle of well under 11 metres, which combined with the all-round visibility make the Kadjar easy to handle around town.

The car has already been awarded a maximum five stars for safety, and comes with a range of features from six airbags to stability, traction and understeer control systems, hill start assist, ABS and emergency brake assist.

As you go up the range and price ladder, other features such as parking sensors, lane departure warning and automatic parking assist systems are available.

Inside, the Kadjar's virtual instrument display are a model of clarity, with all models getting a seven-inch touchscreen display for audio, communications and other functions including navigation, where fitted.

The 190mm ride height does allow four wheel drive Kadjars to venture off hard-surfaces, and 4x4 models also get front and rear skid plates to protect the bodywork.

After its success in the marketplace for smaller crossovers, Renault has plenty of reasons to be confident that Kadjar can do the same against established rivals in what is, to them, a new sector.

A modern, trendy-looking and roomy car with all the attributes that attract such a large number of drivers to the SUV sector is a good place to start, to say nothing of engines offering a good balance of performance and economy. And, of course, that competitive price tag which will have some rivals nervously biting their nails.

And Kadjar? Well, after over a century of car making it must be a) tough to find a name none else has used and b) in a global market one which doesn't translate into something terribly embarrassing in another language (yes, we all know one or two of those).

So the official explanation is 'kad' is inspired by quad (something driven by four wheels or legs) and 'jar' from the French word jallir which means to emerge quickly.

Hence a word for an agile four wheel drive vehicle . . .

Motorhome adventure

By Paul Naylor

Earlier this year I enjoyed my first experience at the wheel of a motorhome. Never one to do things by half, I opted for a rather sizeable vehicle for a novice – the Swift Lifestyle 686.

Coach-built utilising the new generation Fiat Euro 5+ Chassis Cab, the 130bhp/ 2.3 litre engine provided plenty of pulling power for the close to seven metre in length motorhome.

I found the Lifestyle 686 surprisingly easy to manoeuvre. Its power steering is light and responsive and the gear ratios very similar to my own car, with the added bonus of a sixth gear.

There is a rear window, but if you do ever find yourself at the wheel of a motorhome, I can't recommend enough the brilliant optional extra that this model had.

A rear camera acts as the mirror. The image, super-imposed over the actual rear view mirror, provided a natural feeling of added safety.

There is of course, as you would expect these days, a reversing camera too.

The updated 2015 model comes with a host of additional features including running lights and a new smart construction with a strong, moisture proof PURe polyurethane timberless framed body shell.

A new fully integrated touch screen console has a great satellite navigation system as well as DAB radio, CD and MP3 player with bluetooth. The DAB aerial is concealed in the mirror.

Drivers will be delighted to hear that the captain's chairs have integrated headrest, wider backrest, better side support and improved seat comfort.

I was particularly taken by the aesthetics of the 686. It's new metallic black cab and colour coded bumper give it a sleeker appearance, easily distinguishing it from the passing 'white-van man'.

For added comfort, automatic cab air-conditioning is included and the tyre pressure monitoring system is sure to become a must have.

Add to the mix an external shower point – ideal for muddy boots – and barbecue point, for those wanting to eat out in style, and you have a fantastic vehicle ready for all occasions.

Contemporary

The Lifestyle 686 has a superb interior. Finished in tasteful biscuit and cream hues, when dressed in its daytime mode it is reminiscent of a contemporary static caravan.

To the front of the vehicle, situated just behind the cab, a kitchen area includes fridge with small freezer box, microwave, oven and hob.

Opposite is a dining area, ideal for four people. To the rear is the lounge, with ample space for the 686's maximum occupancy of six.

An additional table means you have dining options to the front and rear of the vehicle.

As you would imagine, storage space is cleverly integrated throughout, with nooks and crannies, plus under-seat compartments allowing you to take plenty of clothing on your adventures.

The bathroom is a good-size, with a moulded shower and vanity wash basin and chemical toilet adding to the comfort of any off-the-beaten-track stay.

And speaking of such things, the disposal of the chemical toilet waste – and indeed waste water from showering and washing the dishes – is both discreet and easily done.

My children were big fans of the awning.

'With so much to offer it truly is a great choice for families looking to hit the road.'

The winding mechanism and easy to construct legs gave the 686 added kudos, making it twice as wide on completion and way more versatile.

We found converting the 686 at night time easy too. If you need to sleep six there is space for two above the cabin and two further double beds can be converted from the dining area seats and lounge area.

Privacy can be added using a combination of blinds and curtains.

With so much to offer it truly is a great choice for families looking to hit the road for many a motorhome adventure.

The Swift Lifestyle 686 is available at dealerships throughout the UK now with a recommended on the road price of £47,584.

Safety group welcomes plan to lift fit to drive age

Road safety and breakdown cover specialist GEM Monitoring Assist welcomes the news that the Department for Transport is considering raising the age at which drivers must declare they are fit to drive from 70 to 75.

GEM chief executive David Williams said: "This is a sensible step, however we question the road safety value of any such age-related declaration. Reaching a specific birthday doesn't automatically lead to sudden deteriorations in judgement and eyesight, so we believe that making a formal declaration on fitness to drive at 70, 75 or any age is unnecessary bureaucracy and of little or no road safety benefit."

"We regularly remind all our members – of any age – that they should not drive if they are unfit to do so."

"We encourage all senior drivers to stay mobile as long as they're safe, and we commend the responsible attitude demonstrated by the vast majority of older motorists to self-regulate."

Figures show that senior drivers are a very safe group of road users, according to David Williams. "This is because most are good at altering and adapting their driving to reflect any changes in their ability to drive safely," he explains. So they may avoid driving at night or in bad weather, they may cut down the length of journey they make, they may explore alternative transport methods and ultimately they will themselves decide that the time has come to stop driving.

"Inevitably there are a few senior drivers who make the headlines when poor decisions lead to horrible crashes."

"These are likely to be the ones too proud to heed the warning signs, and too stubborn to listen to advice. According to research, these represent around 10 per cent of senior drivers, and we fully support any safety measures that will identify them and deny them the use of the road."

GEM's 'Still Safe to Drive' website (www.stillsafetodrive.org.uk) is a video-based resource with an excellent line-up of expert advice on safer driving into old age.

There are also tips for concerned family members on how to talk to an elderly relative about reducing risk on journeys.

Good day for runners in villages challenge

IT was another red letter day for Dudley Kingswinford Running Club with Ben Foster taking first place in the inaugural Two Villages 10K race.

Over a testing course, starting and finishing at Enville Hall and taking in some testing climbs around Kinver, Foster was ahead by more than a minute at the finish coming in at 36.53.

Daniel Maskew of Wolverhampton & Bilston was second in 38.16 and West Bromwich Harriers Gurmah Dehl took third in 38.32. DK's Darran Bishop was fourth in 39.51 winning his age group.

Helen Tromans finished runner-up in the ladies race in a PB of 42.54 only 16 seconds behind the winner Victoria Wilkinson of Cheltenham & County Harriers with Louise Collins taking third in 44.26.

There were plenty of other DK on show with Graham Wildgoose taking 35th in 45.47, Rebecca Warren 48th and fifth lady in 47.34, John Andrews finishing in 50.36, Karen Doy in 51.44, Carol Fisher in 52.07, Lynn Sprague in 52.12, Jacqui Elson-Whittaker in 53.33, Andy Freeman and Traci Gaunt both came home in 1.00.15, Sally McConville in 1.03.34 and Debbie Richards in 1.04.54.

The autumn marathon season kicked into gear with athletes travelling to Chester for the classic distance. Matt Biggs finished 25th in 2.48.18, Lorna Hulme was 200 and 15th female in a PB of 3.13.11, Tahir Yasin finished in 4.02.55, Russell Fox in 4.09.04 and Andy Weaver in 4.09.51.

DKhad a representative in their novel metric Marathon, a 26.2k with Charlotte Tonks in 2.52.58.

Irvine is now free to find a new position

ALBION have reached a deal with Alan Irvine to terminate the former head coach's gardening leave.

Irvine, sacked last December by the Baggies, was still being paid monthly under the terms of his dismissal and as a result unable to seek employment elsewhere.

But after an approach by the club through the League Manager's Association, Irvine has accepted terms which will enable him to return to the game.

The Scot, who has been heavily linked with the vacant managerial position at Dundee United, said: "I'm delighted to have reached a settlement agreement with West Bromwich Albion and I'm now free to look for my next challenge."I really enjoyed my time being a manager with West Brom, just as at Preston and Sheffield Wednesday."

Yeltz can't break the stalemate

Halesowen Town 0 Whitby Town 0

HALESOWEN recorded their first drawn game of the season after failing to find the net in what turned out to be a goal-less stalemate.

With Whitby more than happy to claim a rare away point, and Halesowen lacking invention up front, a drab draw started to look inevitable from early on with the moribund game producing just a few half chances until the final 10 minutes but neither side could ultimately come up with the goods.

Halesowen's Isaac Cooper struck a 25 yard shot just inches over the bar in the 11th minute before home goalkeeper Dan Platt pushed away a 13th minute direct free-kick from Matthew Waters at the base of his post. The evenly matched sides still lacked enough attacking ambition to break the deadlock after the interval.

The game proved bereft of entertainment until the 64th minute when Cooper crossed dangerously along the Whitby goal which was one of few opportunities for the shot-shy Yeltz.

The best chance of the game finally arrived in the 82nd minute when a direct free-kick from Whitby captain Mark Robinson was tipped over the bar by home goalkeeper Platt.

Whitby goalkeeper Shane Bland then pushed away a low shot from Cooper which was coming in at the foot of his post before beating away another Cooper effort in the dying seconds of the of what was a disappointing and score less draw.

Hales hold strong against Sandbach

Old Halesonians 27 Sandbach 17

FROM the kick-off the visitors showed their intentions and after only six minutes breached the unusually slack Hales backline for an early converted try.

The home side gradually took a grip but only in phases.

The Hales front row of Louis Padian, Pete Fitzgerald and skipper Rich Taylor were dominant in the tight scrummage, providing adequate ball for the backs.

The Hales backs, led by man of the match Ben Barkley, grabbed a well-taken try by fly half Oli Rayner, converted by Chris Hooper.

Sandbach came back again, this was to be the theme for the whole game.

Hales mauled the ball towards the line with defenders hanging off to score.

Another scrum in the centre of the field in the Sandbach 22 resulted in a collapsed scrum The penalty was converted by Hooper.

On 40 minutes another driving maul by Hales was rewarded with a try from McFarlane, Hooper missed the conversion. In the second half Hales ran at the opposition and saw Padian collect the ball and burst over the line for an unconverted try.

Shortly afterwards Sandbach came back with some strong passages of play and were awarded a penalty to pull back to 24-17. Sandbach had more of the ball in the half and always threatened and remained within one score to draw level.

On 61 minutes the home side were relieved to gain a penalty just inside their 22 which Hooper slotted home.

For the last 20 minutes of the game Sandbach put Hales under constant pressure with many try scoring chances but Hales' defence was fantastic standing strong to a man. Head Coach Ben Hughes told the players that the defensive effort was excellent Broadstreet 2nds v Old Halesonians 2nds

Old Hales 2nds travelled the 40 miles to face Broadstreet 2nds in the Midlands Reserve League where they were told Broadstreet couldn't field a team.

Old Hales captain, Rob Butler, was frustrated at the lack of communication from Broadstreet to call the game off earlier but accepted the walkover league win.

Kidderminster 2nds 14 Old Halesonians 3rds 24

The league fixture against Kidder 2nds was a much tougher proposition than the friendly game played two weeks ago.

Kidder fielded a much stronger team that had more than their fair share of possession. Old Hales defended well and took their opportunities in attack to score four well-taken tries, with two from centre Phil Jukes and one each from wingers Callum Roberts and Dan Smith.

Stoke's win increases pressure on Sherwood

Villa 0 Stoke 1

MARKO Arnautovic increased the pressure on Villa boss Tim Sherwood as Stoke claimed their first Premier League away win since February.

The midfielder struck to secure successive wins for Mark Hughes' resurgent side in a deserved 1-0 victory at Villa Park.

The Potters' last away Premier League win came in Sherwood's first game in charge at Villa in February.

Arnautovic had already seen a goal disallowed in the first half while Charlie Adam's audacious 60-yard lob almost had the visitors in front.

But Arnautovic won it 10 minutes after the break as slapdash defending from the hosts cost them.

Villa failed to mount a response after going behind and remain winless in the Premier League since the opening day, losing the last four, and only implosions from Sunderland and Newcastle stopped Villa slipping to the bottom of the table.

Jack Grealish was benched in the week that saw him pledge his international future to England, while Mame Diouf replaced the injured Xherdan Shaqiri.

But without Grealish Villa lacked any spark with Stoke, worryingly for Sherwood, comfortable.

An early sweeping move left Villa open at the back and Bojan spotted Diouf's run, only for Micah Richards to produce a superb block when the striker pulled the trigger.

Stoke dictated the play, but the game lacked real quality until Adam almost repeated his wonder goal against Chelsea after 18 min-

Albion heroes are ready to help league

ALBION legend Bob Taylor and former Hawthorns favourite Richard Sneekes are teaming up to help support the Dudley and Cradley Heath League as special guests.

The two former footballers will check in for a sporting evening at the Dudley Ex-Servicemen's Club on Friday, November 20.

The league is staging the event to raise funding so that they can help keep costs down for all the sides involved.

Tickets cost £10 each and the numbers will be limited so they are being sold on a first come, first served basis.

Anyone interested in buying tickets should contact either Mel Lewis (07826 052918), Carl Dakin (07919 107774) or Brian Pedley (07899 635771).

Heathens are motivated, says captain

CRADLEY boss Will Pottinger says they have added motivation heading into the second leg of their Knockout Cup semi-final with King's Lynn at Perry Barr next Wednesday.

The Heathens have seen their future placed in jeopardy after the announcement they are searching for new management and their consortium will not be continuing to run the club in 2016.

Pottinger is now desperate to see them overcome the Young Stars and ensure their Perry Barr showdown is not the last time the famous Heathens race jacket is seen on track.

He said: "We know there is a chance that this could be our last meeting, so I guess there is an added motivation for us there."

"We are still hopeful someone will come forward and we'll be able to continue next year, but we know there is no guarantee so we are desperate to try and extend this season."

"We'll be doing everything we can to make it past King's Lynn and into the final against Eastbourne."

"Regardless of what the future holds we want to end this season on a high, so we are certainly looking to try and go all the way and win the Knockout Cup."

Meanwhile Heathens star Matt Williamson has spoken of his shock at the management's decision to stand down.

"The news was a real shock to be honest, but I can understand how it's happened," Williamson said.

Cradley Heathens Supporters' Trust say they are desperate not to see the team die after its owners announced they were stepping down.

Lifelong supporter Spencer Billingham said: "We are just coming to terms with what has happened like everyone else."

Bowlers have eyes on £3,500 Masters prize share out

SOME of the top bowlers in the country are looking to get a share of prize money of more than £3,500 in the finals of a competition.

This year's in the All Aspects George Masters final will be taking place on Saturday.

One of the favourites is Greg Smith from Alvechurch who won the Waterloo handicap that was televised live on ITV4.

Lancashire's Simon Coupe, who has won every major honour in the game, will be looking to win his first Masters and there are plenty of other top class county bowlers in the final 16 hoping to take the £1,000 winners cheque.

Play starts at 10am at The George Bowling Club, George Road, Oldbury B68 9LN.

No relegation fight, says McAuley

GARETH McAULEY wants Albion to start building in the right direction again after stressing another relegation scrap is not in their plans.

Two straight defeats and a haul of just eight points from their opening eight games has left the Baggies 17th in the early Premier League table and supporters fearing another long campaign battling near the bottom.

But centre-back McAuley insists sights are set far higher.

He said: "The aim for the season is to push up towards the top half if we can, and especially to keep away from the bottom three. The last couple of seasons, there's been times when we've been too close for comfort."

After consecutive top-10 finishes under Roy Hodgson and Steve Clarke, Albion have spent the past two campaigns dicing against the drop and the target for McAuley is clear.

"We would like to finish the season with our best ever points tally in the Premier League and reach that 50 points mark, which we've never quite done in the past," he said. "When I joined the club, it was always about building and doing better, which we did initially. But now we've had a couple of seasons where we fell back a little bit so it would be nice to start going in the right direction again and to start building again."

McAuley, currently on international duty with Northern Ireland as they look to secure Euro 2016 qualification, has been a mainstay of Albion's defence to this point of the season.

Boss Tony Pulis signed Jonny Evans and James Chester to bolster his backline over the summer but the 35-year-old admits to relishing the competition.

"When you are in the team, you need to perform every week."

Our season starts now, says Jackett

WOLVES' season starts here – that was the message from boss Kenny Jackett, who hailed the contributions of goalscorers Benik Afobe and Kevin McDonald.

A second successive 3-0 victory propelled Jackett's team into the Championship play-off picture, just a week after they were only three points off the bottom of the league.

And while not getting carried away with his team's form, Jackett expressed his delight at the victory over Huddersfield – and bemoaned the two-week break before their next fixture owing to the international break.

He said: "We've got seven points out of nine, there's the opportunity to do that in this league, and we're disappointed the international break has now come."

"The big thing is now our season is ahead of us and we have to keep building."

McDonald, who has withdrawn from the Scotland squad with a back injury, scored one and Afobe the other two as Wolves picked up their third clean sheet of the season.

The pair have both dealt with off-the-field distractions and been far from at their best this season, but played a crucial role in Saturday's victory.

Jackett added: "Maybe Afobe was distracted, it would be the case for any young player, it's tough, but he's been a big player for us and he's only been here since January. We think he has a very good future at 22 and he's really got his confidence at Wolves which is what he was looking for when he came here."

"McDonald adding goals to a very good game. His concentration's been very good and he's a key player. With Coady getting suspended and Edwards getting injured it's opened up the partnership again for Price and McDonald."

Villa apologise for dropping training

VILLA have apologised to supporters after opting not to stage their traditional October half-term open training session due to fixture congestion.

The annual event at Villa Park is particularly popular with young fans.

But Tim Sherwood's men face Southampton in the Capital One Cup on the Wednesday of the school break (October 28), forcing the club to put the open training session on hold.

A statement on the club's website said: "We would like to apologise to supporters who look forward to attending open training and we will explore the possibility of staging an event later in

Halesowen Town 1 Nantwich Town 1

NANTWICH man of the match

Matt Kosylo broke Halesowen's hearts with a superb equaliser two minutes into injury time.

The Yeltz had looked set for all three points after Isaac Cooper grabbed an earlier lead.

Three minutes into the second half he poked home from close range after Keyon Refell helped the ball on towards goal, following good work by Reece Hales and Luke Connolly down the right.

Both sides had an early corner cleared before Rob Elvins nodded narrowly wide for Halesowen after six minutes.

Matt Bell then shot just past the post from 20 yards for Nantwich in the 12th minute and Elliott Osborne's corner was played back in for Matt Bailey to send a low header just wide of the Yeltz post a minute later.

A dangerous 17th minute cross from Cooper was then cleared although chances were few in the first half midfield battle.

Crossbar

The Dabbers went close towards half-time when Josh Hancock played a deft ball into the penalty area but home goalkeeper Dan Platt saved under his crossbar after Bell clipped the ball on at the first touch.

Keyon Refell then rifled a 20 yard shot at visiting goalkeeper Terry Smith before Kosylo curled a free-kick just past the post with Platt left watching just seconds before the interval.

After taking the 48th minute lead in a move started and finished by Cooper, Halesowen went close again as Hales drove wide.

Kosylo received a yellow card after going down under a challenge in the penalty area following an interchange and Bell curled a 67th minute free-kick over the Halesowen bar.

Substitute Lewis Short then hesitated too long after collecting a long ball forward into the Yeltz area in the 69th minute.

Livewire Kosylo cut in from the left after meeting Andy White's long pass in the 78th minute but was denied by Platt before Nantwich substitute Josh Gordon struck the home side netting three minutes later.

Kosylo grabbed an injury time equaliser.

Pressure is growing for Pulis

Palace's Wilfried Zaha and Albion's James Morrison battle for the ball at Selhurst Park on Saturday

Crystal Palace 2 Albion 0
ALBION failed to register a serious shot on target until the game was already lost and when Palace finally did breach their defences through Yannick Bolasie, midway through the second half, it was merely justice for a performance of patience against an adventure-free opponent.

Pulis' post-match frustration bordered on anger, but it was an emotion shared with the 1,300 travelling supporters, many of whom awoke before dawn and travelled more than 100 miles to watch such an insipid display against a Palace team which, while talented, does not deserve tactics usually reserved for playing the likes of Barcelona.

Albion's investigations of a home defence, which looked shaky on the rare occasions it was tested, never got beyond the exploratory.

It was football, but not as many people know it and certainly not in the form which makes them fall in love with the game, or with a club. Is there a tougher team in the Premier League to watch than Albion right now? It's doubtful.

The fact Pulis' men failed to register a shot in the 21 minutes between Bolasie's opener and Yohan Cayabe might be the most damning statistic of all.
